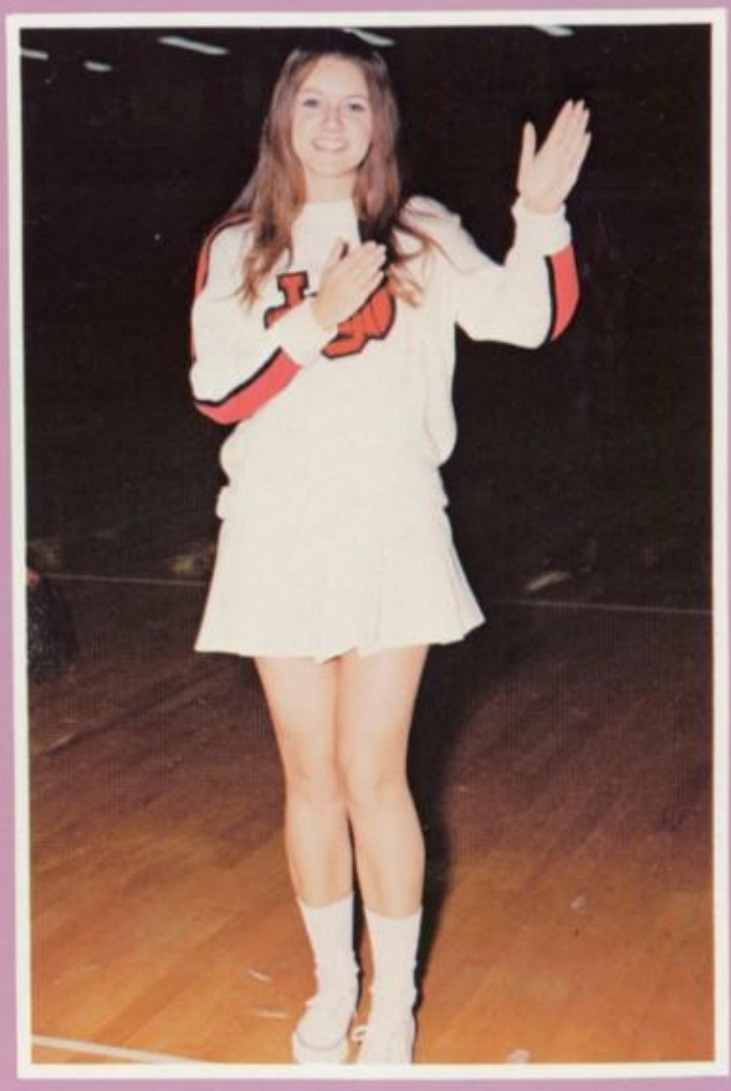
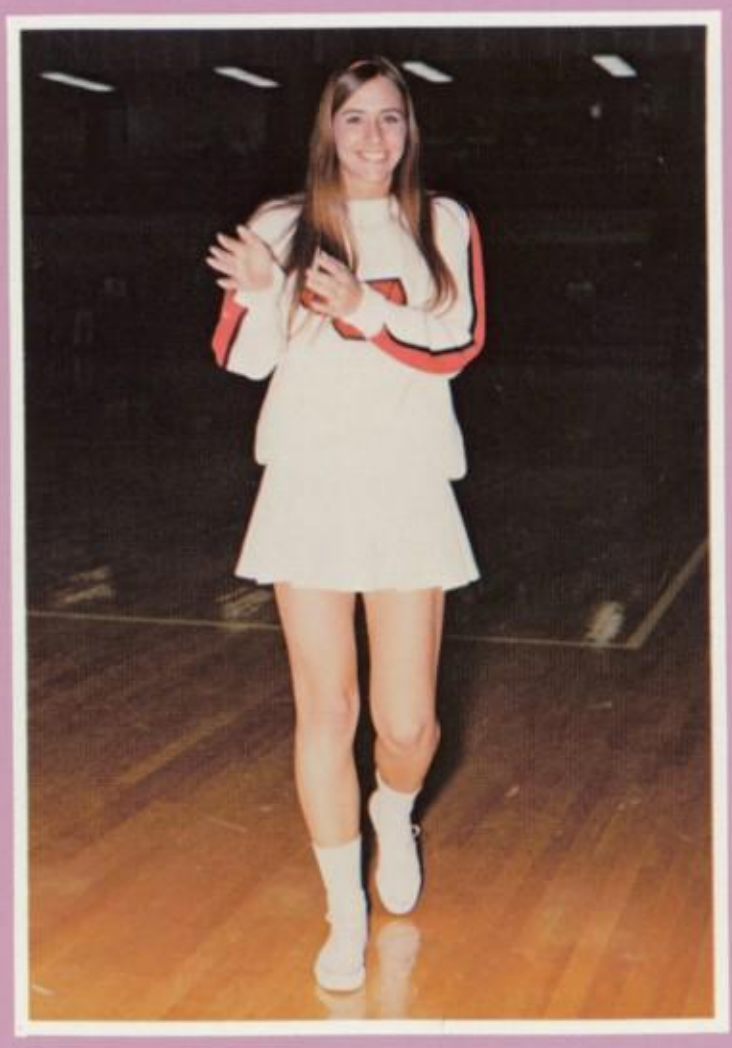
Unfolding the new beginning.





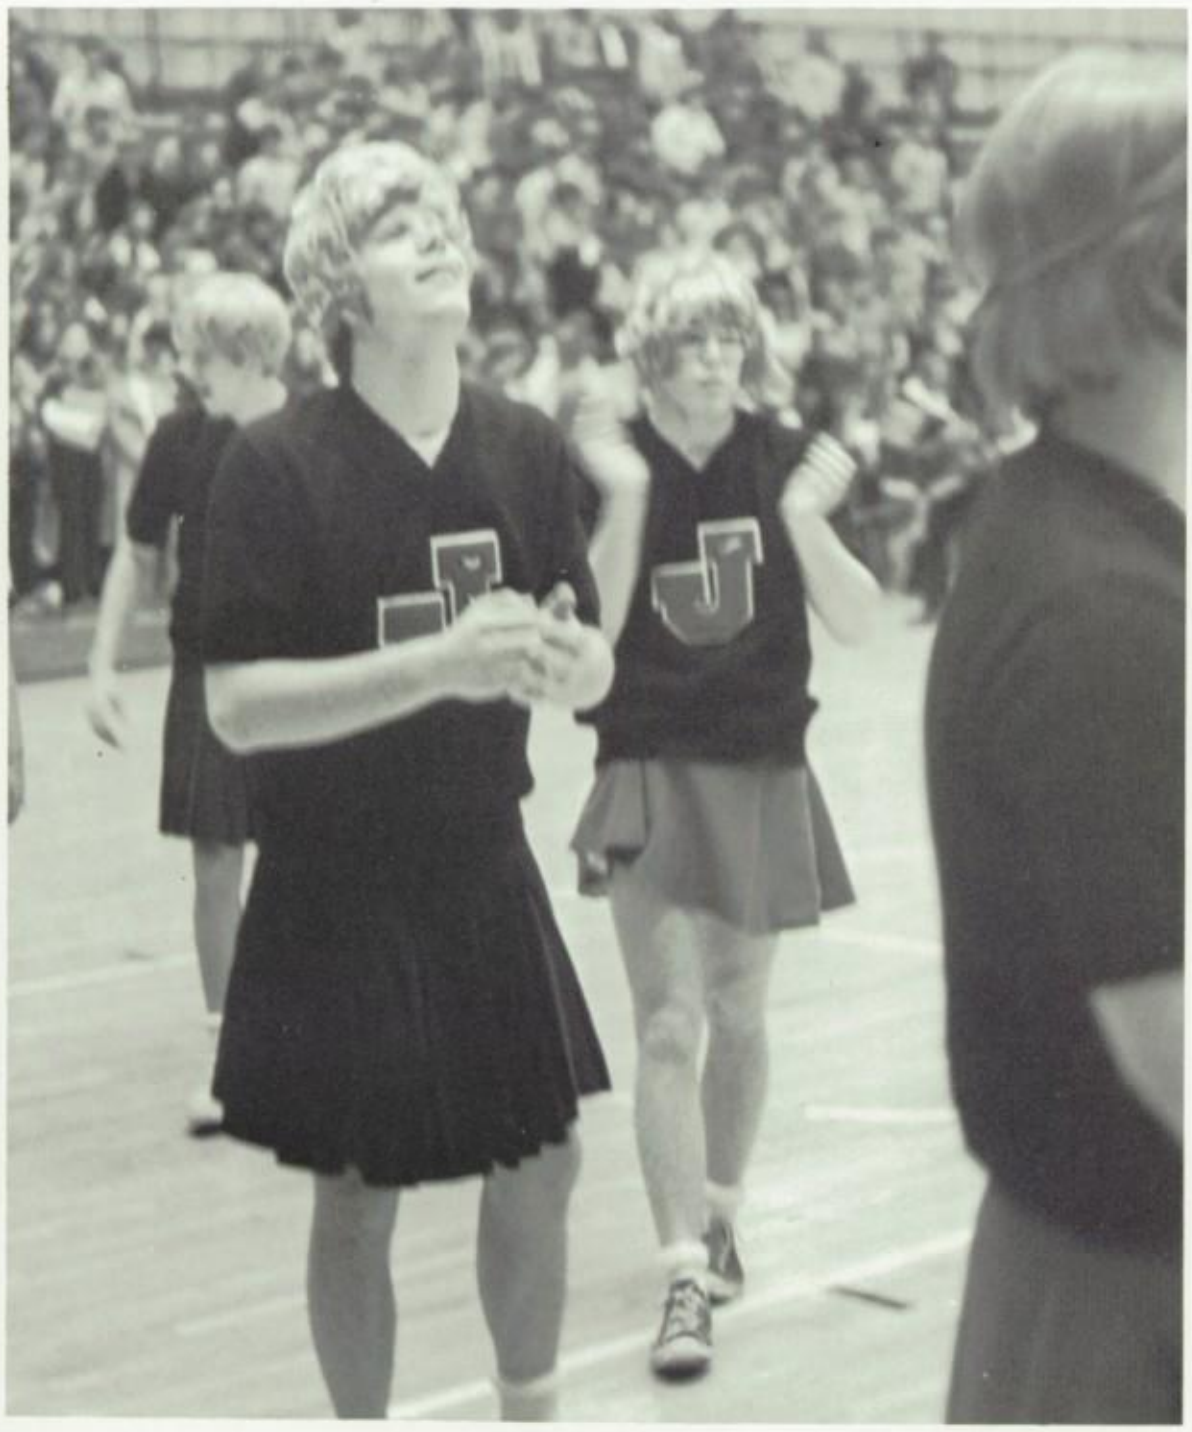
Boys' and Girls' State

Delegates who attended Girls' and Boys' State were educated in the mechanics of state government. The delegates chosen for Boys' State were Jeffrey Newell, Curt Coonrod, Harold Vaughn, Alfred Buckley, Jad Dubberley, and Larry White. Held at Indiana State University, the boys learned the functions of a representative form of government. The girls attending the program at Indiana University were Cathy Reynolds, Corki Koehler, and Karen Grisez. In the government classes they attended, they became familiar with practical politics.

Participating in Boys' or Girls' State enabled these students to gain a working knowledge of state government.

Posing at the Elliot Hall of Music are Jeff's representatives to Boys' and Girls' state, Jeff Newell, Alfred Buckley, Harold Vaughn, Jad Dubberley, Curt Coonrod, Corki Koehler, Karen Grisez, Cathy Reynolds, and Larry White.

At Girls' and Boys' State, Jad Dubberley, and Corki Koehler learned respect for Indiana's flag and the heritage behind it.



Broncho cheerleaders Randy Brehmer and Dan CasaSanta spirit the crowd in support of the all-female basketball team during a pep session.

J. A. and music head convos

To break the monotony of the classroom routine, several activities were provided for the students throughout the year.

JA sponsored the first convo of the year to encourage students to enter the program. Then came the "Activities Roundup;" its purpose was to acquaint the student with the organizations at Jeff. The Marching Band was also featured at a convo. The SSS Gallop and the Holiday Tourney were two other highlights of the first semester.

The first part of the second semester was filled with the annual state basketball tourney, often referred to as "Hoosier Hysteria." Following the excitement of the tourney, came the much needed spring vacation. After spring break, came the last minute preparation of those all important term papers. Then came finals and finally graduation for over 500 seniors.

Amond other stunts during the Christmas pep session, several Bronchoette enthusiasts represented the team in a mock game.

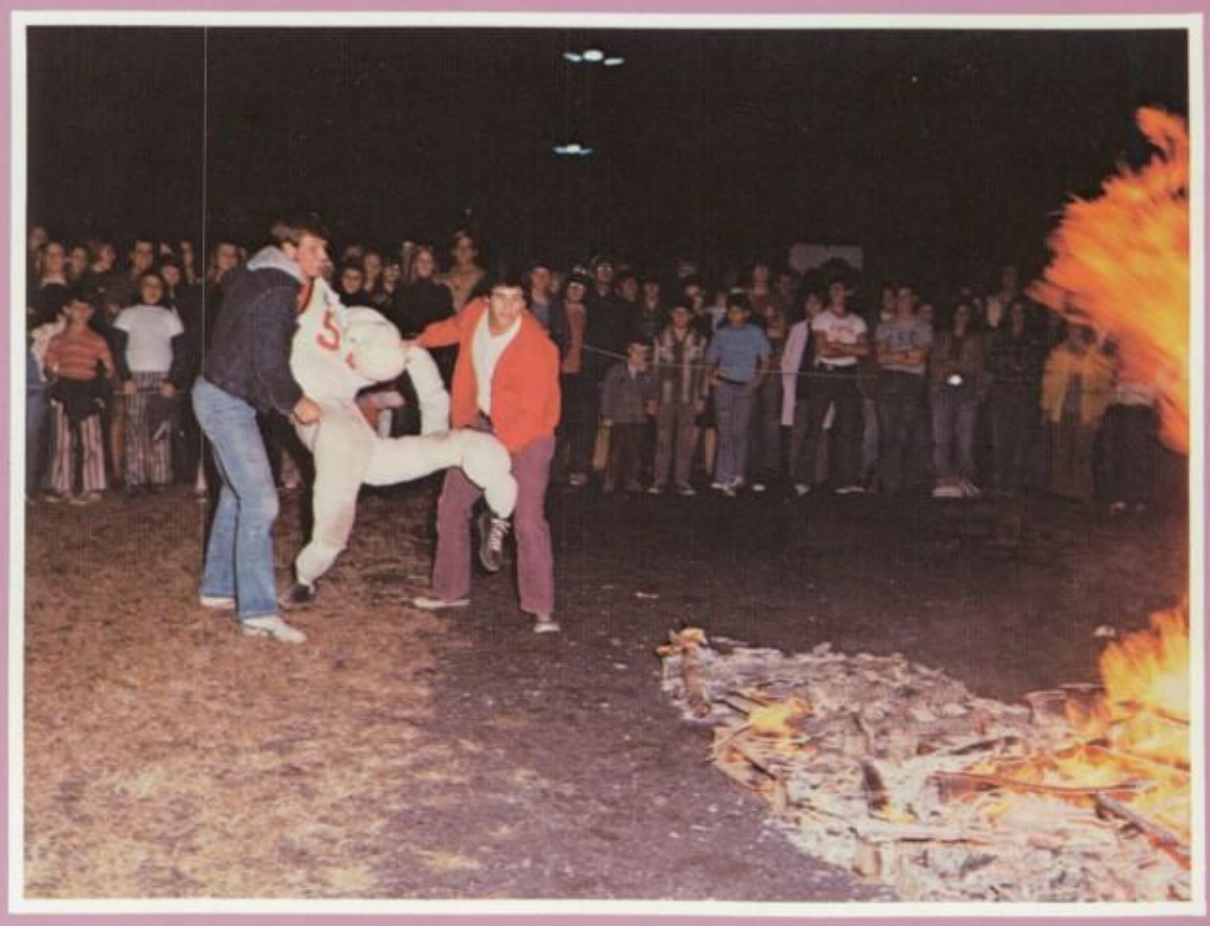
The trio, "Three of a kind," was featured at the A Cappella sponsored mixer following the defeat of the Logansport "Berries."

Homecoming Queen — Janine's joy

The traditional Homecoming bonfire was held the Wednesday before the Homecoming football game with Muncie Central. The effigy of a Muncie Central player was thrown to the fire showing the desire to "destroy" Muncie Central at the game. Also, the football team and Homecoming Queen candidates were presented.

To add to the excitement of Homecoming, a decorating contest was held between the classes. The juniors were awarded first prize for decorations at the Homecoming pep session. A Homecoming skit and the "Spirit Jug" competition were also held at the pep session.

Members of the 1972 football team were introduced at the Homecoming game. At halftime, the Homecoming Queen candidates were introduced. The crowd awaited anxiously until Janine Cokain was crowned the 1972 Homecoming Queen.



Randy Brehmer and Mike Crapeau prepare to burn the effigy of a Muncie Central player during the traditional Homecoming bonfire in October.

Surrounding Janine Cokain, 1972-1973 Homecoming Queen, is her court consisting of Corine Little, Carol Felix, Kris Irwin, and Cathy Reynolds. The girls escorts were Mark Eikenberry, Ted Phillips, Dick Murray, Jad Dubberley, and Doug Myers.

Bob Dowell crowned '72 Gallop King

"Nifty Fifty Fling" was the title of the Sunshine Society's annual Bronchoette Gallop. "Jim Dandy" was the featured band. The band appropriately played a medley of songs that were popular in the '50's.

1973 prom designated semiformal

With the thought of the last class' prom at Purdue in mind, seniors chose to have a small prom followed by a large after-prom at Jeff this year.

The prom was semiformal, meaning that tuxedos and formals were not required.

Committeemen were elected to direct the different aspects of the affair, and as usual, the seniors who had sold seventy-five dollars or more worth of magazines decorated for the prom. As always, the magazine sale was the school's largest money-making project.

As a final goodbye, the class of 1973 left a gift of appreciation to the high school's faculty and administrators.

Seniors Carolyn Rohrabaugh and Alan Wolfelt pause a moment before leaving for the prom.

In preparation for the prom, Janet Rowe fastens the back of Jewell Ferguson's delicate evening gown.

’73 honors wear gold tassels

Finally free from text books and tedious homework, graduating senior Janine Cokain is anxious to show her enthusiasm.

The familiar melody of “Pomp and Circumstance” filled the Jeff gymnasium as over 500 graduating seniors marched to their seats on the main floor. The procession was dressed in the traditional blue silken caps and gowns. Gold tassels identified the top scholastic achievers of the class of 1973.

R. William Levering, principal of Jefferson High School, announced each student as he stepped onto the stage to receive his diploma from one of the eight school board members. To each graduate, his diploma represented years of hard work and exciting experiences.

Parents and relatives proudly watched as the graduates filed out the gym to the tunes of “Sons of Jeff” and “Auld Lang Syne.”

Social Studies students react to the

The social studies classes studied the election processes of the 1972 election in great depth. Some classes conducted special elections with sample ballots. One election was held early in the year and another one after students heard from special speakers, took polls, and held class discussions.

The year's lesson plan was scheduled around the textbook, films, outside research, class debates, and library studies. The outside projects of social studies included the reading and reporting of books and magazine articles.

The teachers of the social studies classes tried to involve the students with the problems of the world of yesterday, today, and tomorrow.

For an outside activity in U.S. History, Rhonda Reagan and Debbie Maas observe the monument of William Digby, the founder of the City of Lafayette.

Business students acquire skills

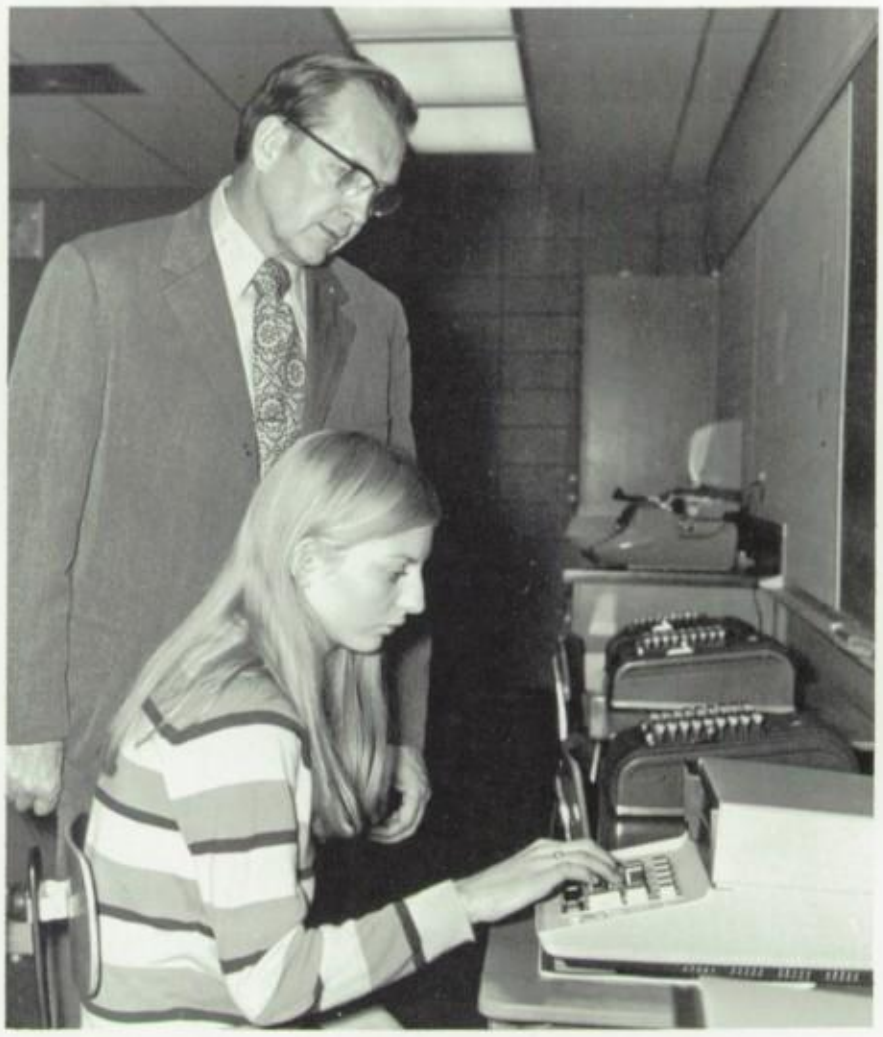
With the accessibility of modern office equipment such as electric calculators, keypunch machines, electric typewriters, and quiet carpeted classrooms, the business-oriented student learned the basic fundamentals of business. To those students wishing to pursue a career in accounting, clerical work, or some other aspect of commercial training, courses in typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office transcription become invaluable.

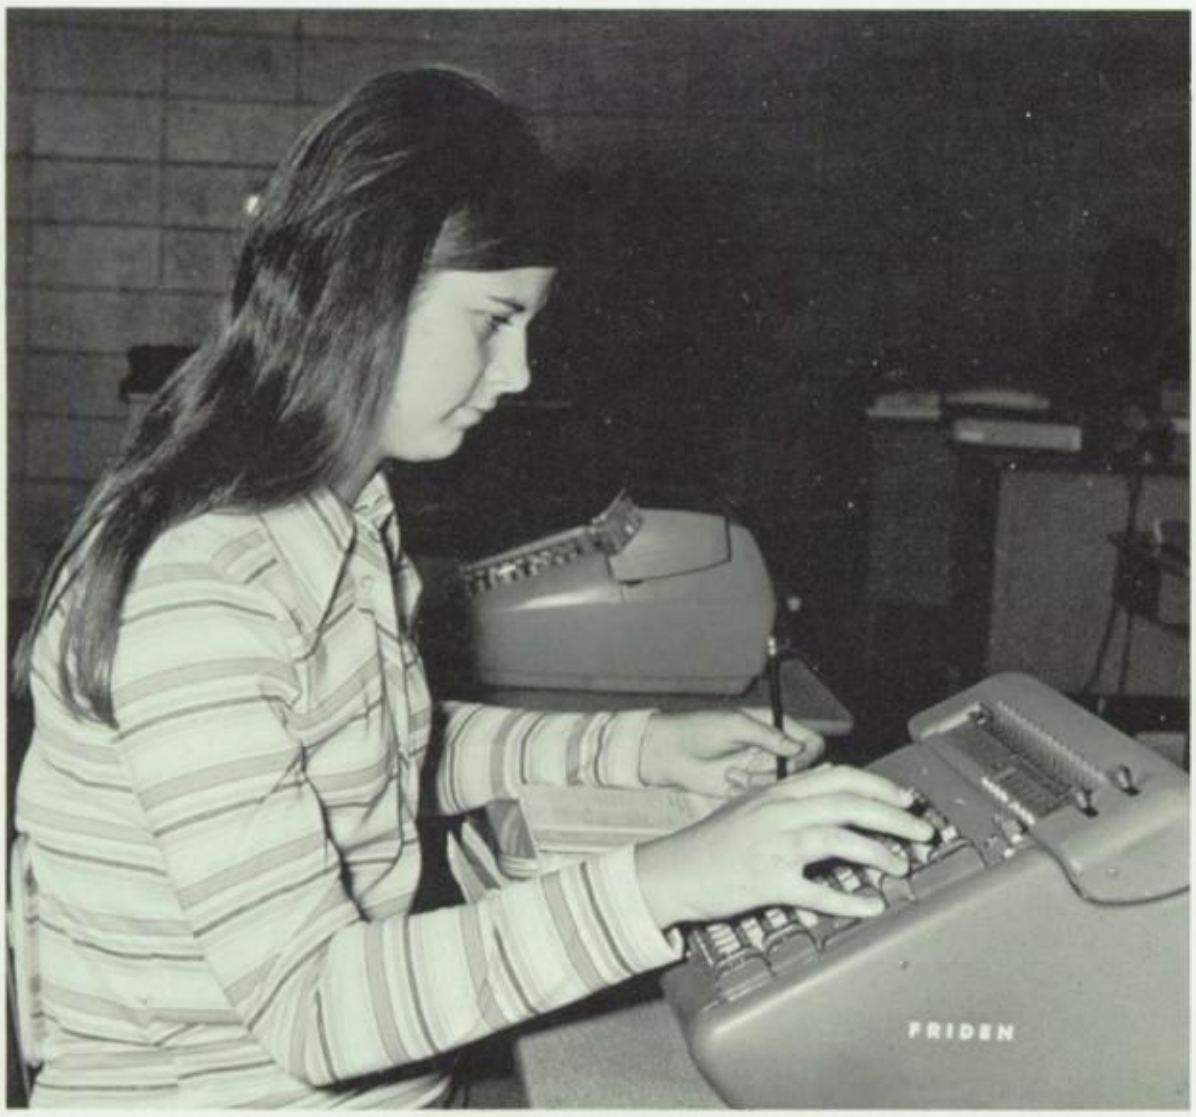
Students were kept busy with translation exercises as symbols of shorthand were learned. Skills and techniques of bookkeeping were continually stressed because of the importance in accounting and economics. Agility and nimbleness of fingers were acquired by many typing students. The business classes were coordinated by department head, Mr. Ernest Cortner.

Joe Conn attempts to fix his typewriter by rewinding the ribbon during an average day in typing class. Rewinding the ribbon is just one of the basic skills learned in typing.

Jackie Hicks and Sherri Dye find that adding machines prove to be helpful in their bookkeeping class.

Mr. Cortner observes Kathy Nangle as she prepares to use an electric calculator in business education.





Diane Sutton uses the rotary calculator to add, multiply, and subtract several figures. The rotary calculator is just one of the machines used in the office machines class.

Home Economic students were making use of Jeff's facilities to learn new skills to apply to their future lives, whether in marriage or occupation.

One of the courses offered was foods, which showed students how to prepare and how to serve what they made.

A course which taught a person to get along with his fellow students and adults was family living.

Clothing classes taught the students to sew and recognize the different materials the various types of stitching. Other courses were offered in child care, interior decorating, and designing.

These courses will continually profit the students after they have been graduated from Jefferson High School.

In foods class, Charles Green and Greg Garrison learn that along with cooking and eating the food, cleaning up afterward is a necessity.

Rhonda Dilks, Dean Oliver, John Corbin, and Debbie Dewey prepare to taste their desserts.

Stephanie Ham assists Judy Hicks by pinning the hem in one of Judy's home economics projects that she made in class.

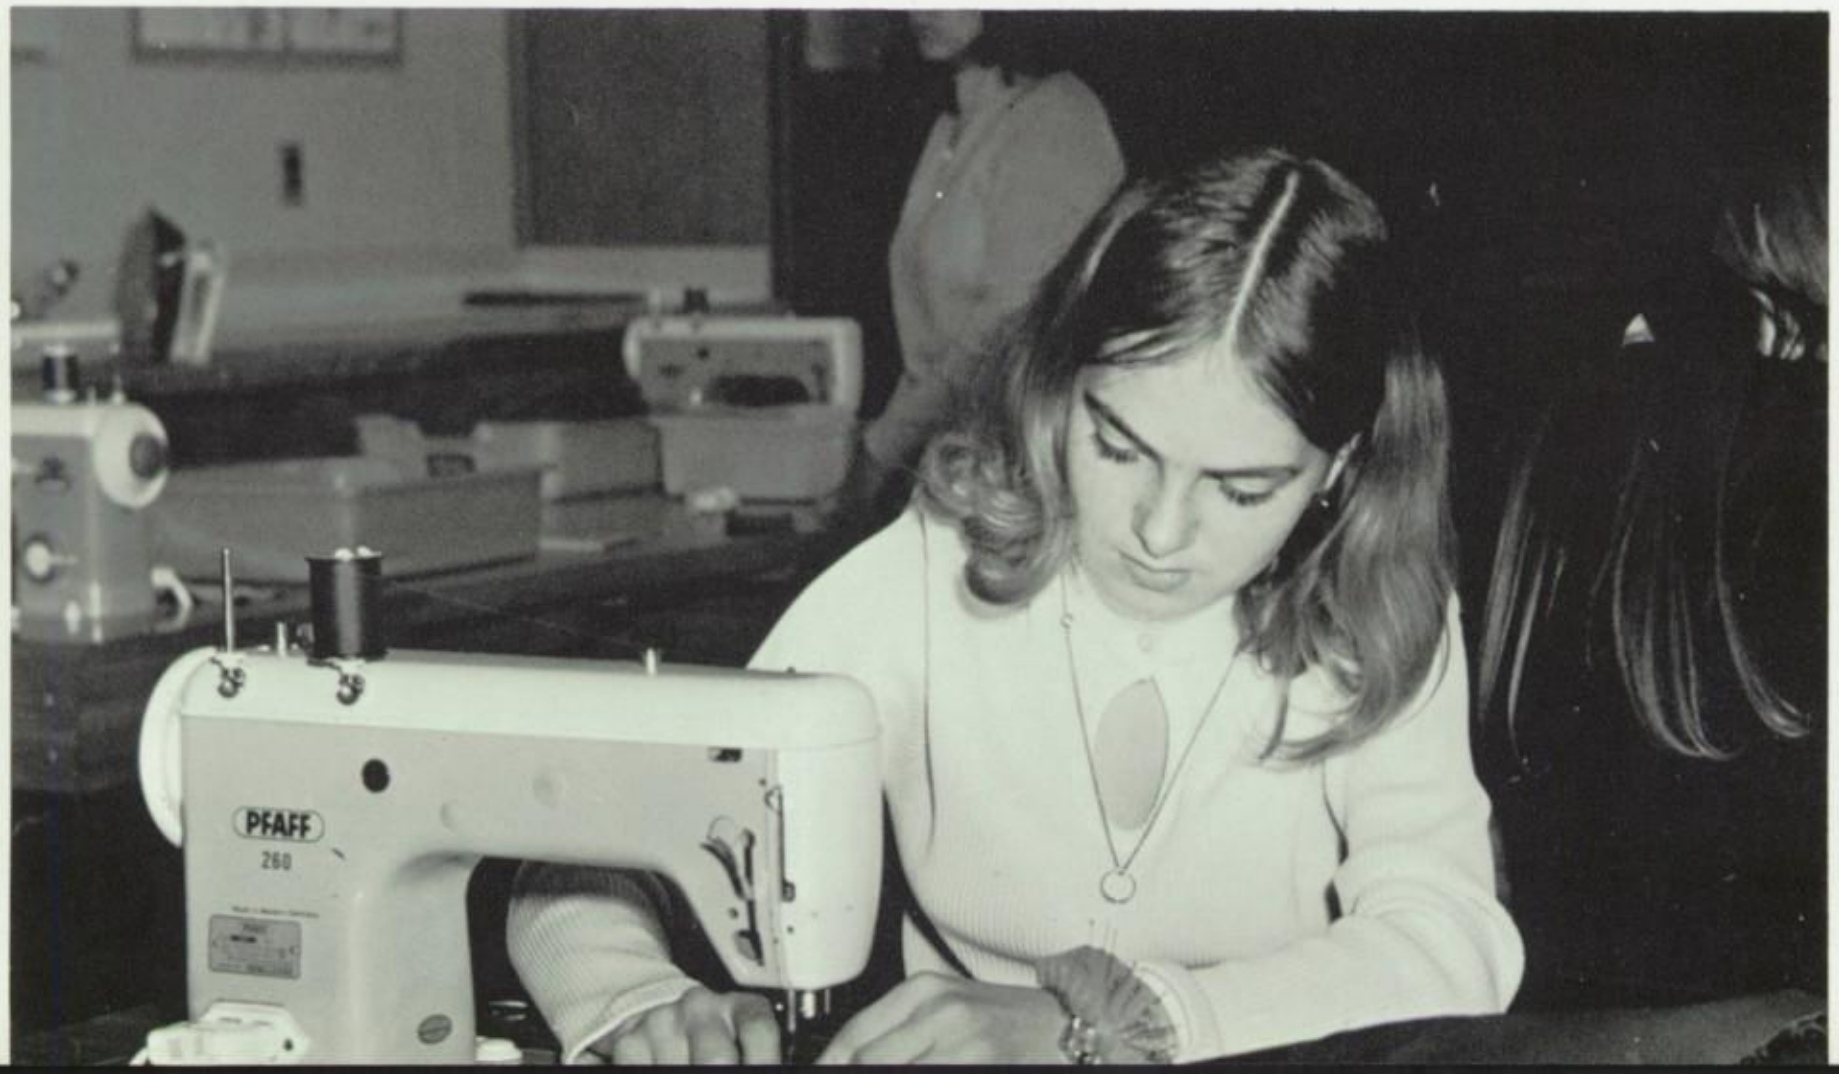
Terry Delph slashes her thread in completion of a seam on one of several projects she made during the year in her home economics class.

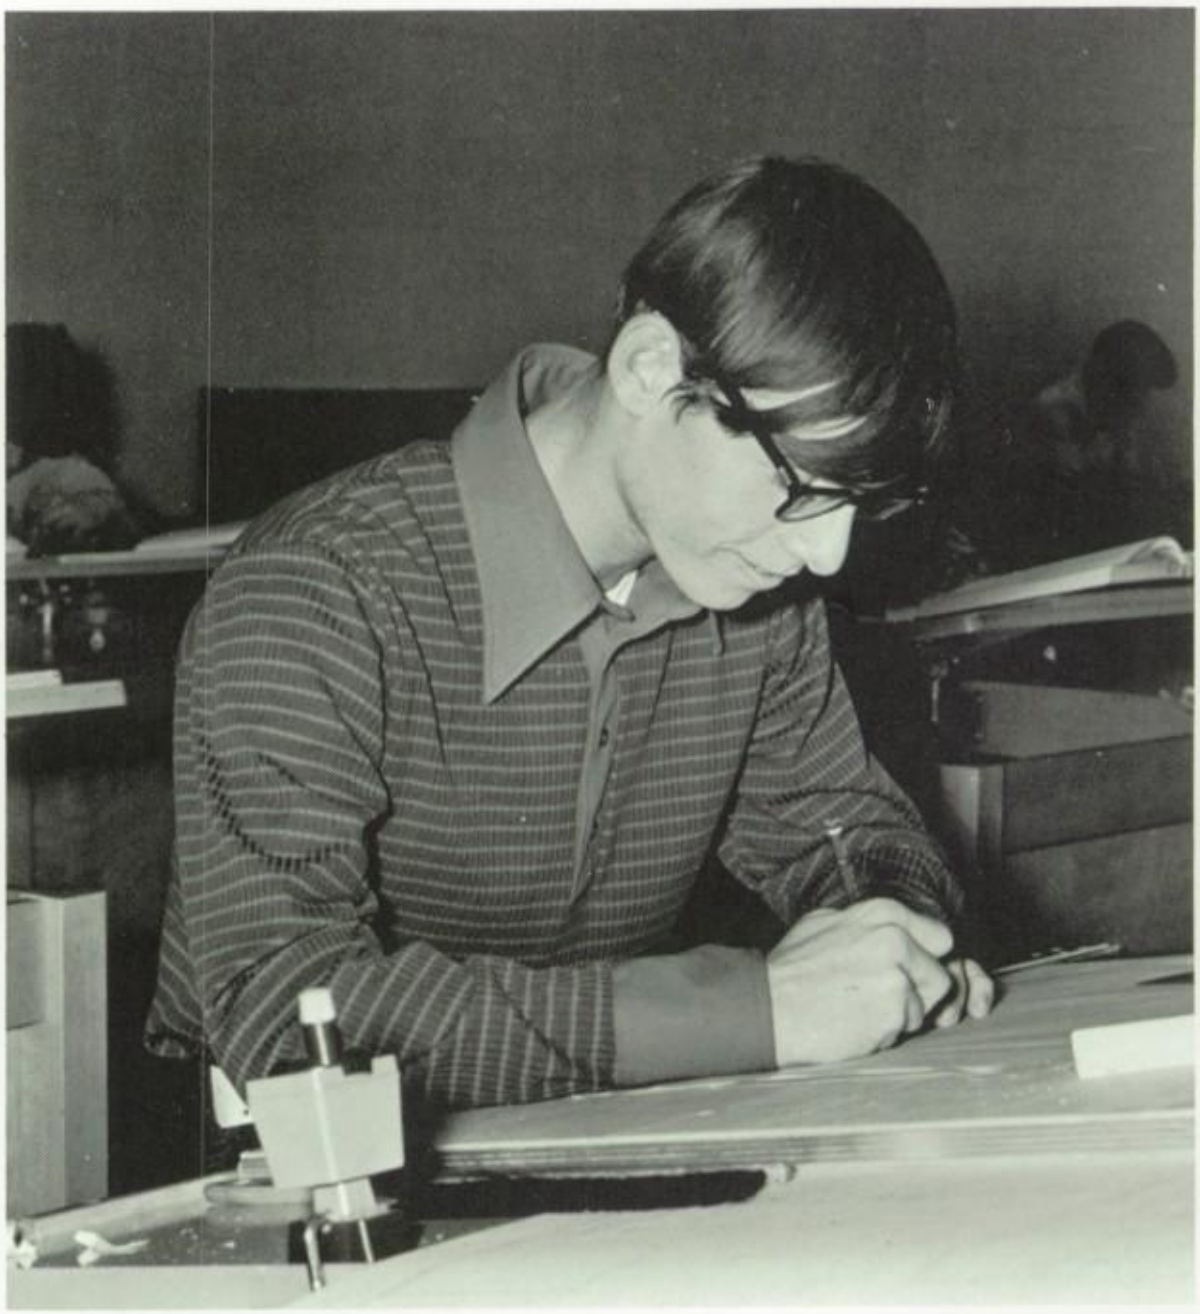


Arts teach industrial skills

The industrial arts department offered a wide variety of courses to students who were interested in gaining experience in shop courses. Among these courses were machine shop, power mechanics, electronics, and the graphic arts.

Machine shop and power mechanic students learned to work safely around the machines and engines they were working with. In electronics the students learned how electricity circulates and how equipment is used in relation to electricity. The graphic arts department offered students the chance to learn about printing methods.

The skills gained in these classes gave students valuable experience in these areas.



In drafting class, students learn the fundamental principles of architectural planning. Doyle Letson puts these fundamentals to use while doing a project in class.

Vocational Ed. students learn skills

With the help of Mrs. Dye and Mrs. Gailar, the occupational education students learned about the business world. The occupational education classes included ideas which were valuable to students interested in a successful future. The students were taught to budget and manage money, and the importance of correct enunciation. They also developed their reading ability. Reading want ads contributed to their learning.

As sophomores at Jefferson, the students took the standard required curriculum. As juniors, the students worked within the school. The junior year prepared students for future careers. As seniors, the students went to school half days, then attended their individual jobs in the community.

Music students learn fundamentals of theory

Music — composing — conducting. These are just a few of the aspects that were covered in music theory, a prerequisite requiring course offered only to seniors interested in a music major in college.

Mr. Gary Branson taught one section of music theory, and Mrs. Gary Branson taught a second section. Their goal was to present different aspects of music, such as sight-singing, life studies of composers, styles of music, and music history.

The class also studied other interesting aspects of music, such as composing and conducting, then they attempted to compose their own music.

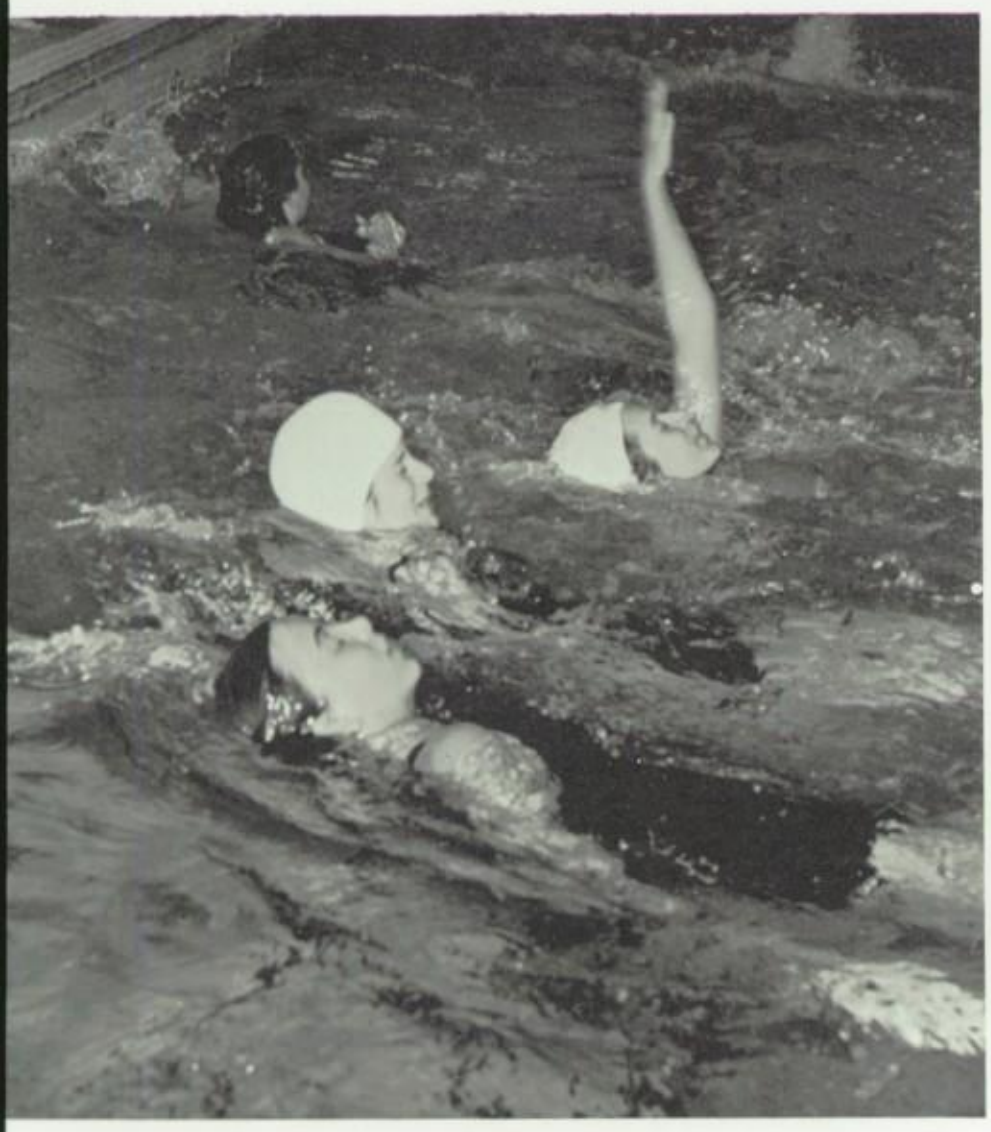
Students in physical education classes participate in calesthentics and isometrics to inhance the muscular ability of their bodies.

Health classes this year involved topics, such as nutrition, grooming, and diseases of the human body. The greatest stress was on consumer education. Consumer education is having the knowledge to recognize correct and incorrect information about drugs, cures, and quackery in medicine. Students also learned about mental illness. Some students supported a mental patient.

The students were fortunate to have superb facilities for physical education. The sophomores were involved in sports such as gymnastics, basketball, swimming, tennis, baseball, and archery. Advanced P.E. offered team and individual sports. In advanced swimming, students had the chance to earn their senior lifesaving certificate. Mrs. Beard stated that the P.E. department wanted to have a class for handicapped students, but there were not enough interested.

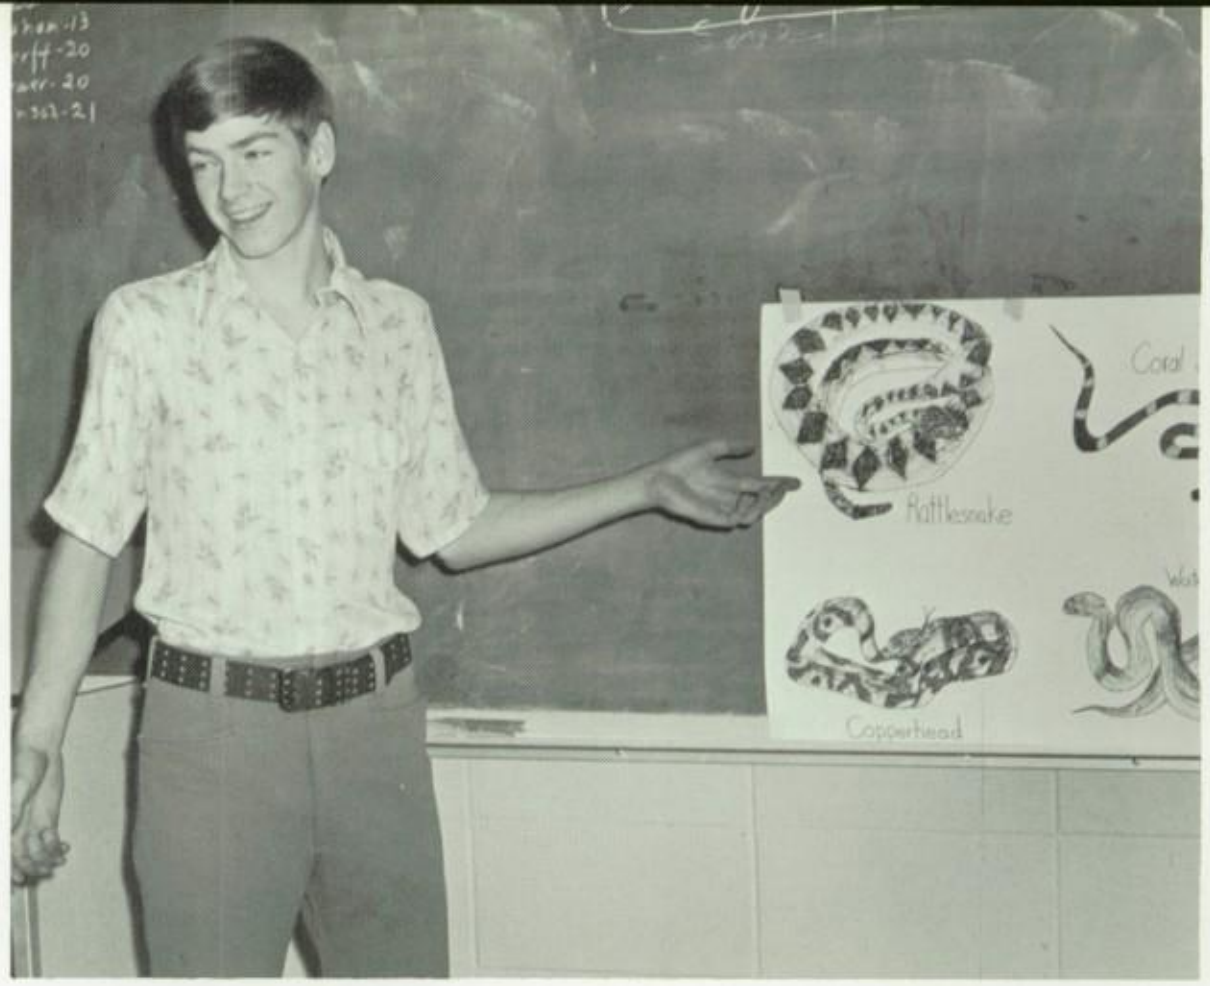
Lou Rogers, Shannon LaPlante, and Kathy Crow learn the art of swimming the backstroke in physical education class.



Crawling through tires is just one of the relays done in boys' physical education classes.

The English department of Jefferson High School stressed in every class the proper usuage of English grammar. The grammar extended into themes, compositions, book reports, and term papers. The diversities of English literature such as poems, essays, novels, short stories, and plays, exemplified to the student the importance of grammar in written communication with others.

The speech classes of Jefferson High School furthered the concept of proper grammar in the area of spoken communication. By reading poetry, giving various speeches, or telling a simple joke, the speech student learned better qualities in spoken communication. Correct pronunciation and indicative gestures were also stressed.



Dennis Finch explains to the members of his speech class the various types of poisonous snakes and the harmful effect of their venom upon humans.

Science problems challenge students

The science department tried to apply the laws of chemistry, physics, and biology in a way that the students could compare to their life. Biology teachers taught the students to build an investigation from the simple to the most complex. The physics and chemistry teachers tried to involve the students with their subjects by labs.

The science students learned to discover for themselves. The students proved the laws by using the data that their investigations had indicated. The students were not only shown how to find information, they also were shown how to use the lab equipment that was available.

Some students prepared science projects for showing at the various science fairs at state and national levels.

Knowledge + hard work = mathematics

Mr. Kenneth Conkling, head of the mathematics department, is instructing Pamela Holladay in the process of bisecting an angle for her geometry class.

In order to meet the needs of the various kinds of students, the mathematics department offered many different kinds of math courses. Business Arithmetic I and II were offered for the business minded student. Installment buying, the purchasing of stocks and bonds, and the study of business records and forms were some of the areas covered by these two courses. Students who wanted only the basic skills of mathematics had the opportunity to take Basic Math I and II.

College bound students had a variety of courses to choose from; Algebra III and IV were offered to juniors and seniors, while Algebra V and VI were offered only to seniors. Geometry I and II were also offered. Algebra III, IV, V, and VI and Geometry I and II were offered in an honors program for the higher scholastic achievers.

Students speak with forked tongues

Jefferson offered three foreign languages, Spanish, French, and German, to interested students. The goal of the foreign language department was to teach the enrolled students to effectively use the language they chose; that is, to form sentences and use words correctly in both writing and speaking.

Teachers used the modern recording equipment installed in the classrooms and in the foreign language lab to aid them in teaching. This equipment made it possible for the student to tape oral drills and then to play the tape back and hear himself speak.

Amateurs learn pro skills

Learning to coordinate wheel throwing and hand building with clay were a few of the lessons learned in crafts. The beginning classes studied the properties of clay and how to make coil, slab, and pinch pots. The basics of working on the wheel, glazing, and firing processes were observed during the course of a semester. Advanced classes tried to think of new and different things to do with their clay and to create larger and more extensive pieces of art.

Drawing classes emphasized the proportions of the human body as well as landscapes, perspectives, and abstract art.

While many artistic students were interested with clay, others focused their attentions on working with wax impressions for casting. These advanced students cast unusual and interesting rings, earrings, and bracelets.

Mike Demerly throws a symmetrical pot by opening a cylinder of clay on the bat of the potter's wheel.

Radio & T.V. facilities ranked high

After a year of broadcasting in the Lafayette area, WJJE became a trademark of Jefferson High School.

Many students and faculty members were given the opportunity to operate the equipment and use the 250 watt radio station. Under the careful direction of William Fraser, department head and radio-television director, and Stevan Speheger, technical engineer; students taking radio-television class learned the fundamental functions of broadcasting.

In the fall, students interested in broadcasting and members of the WJJE student staff went by bus to Chicago, where they took an FCC test in order to obtain a third-class operator's license. The closed circuit television system consisted of five black and white, and forty-five color television sets.

Students exhibit dramatic abilities

Directed by H.T. Prill and supervised by senior Chuck Ellison, the Jefferson Players presented their fall production THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK . The play was based upon the book ANNE FRANK: DIARY OF A YOUNG GIRL . Debbie Pino, sophomore, and Kassy Sullivan, junior, portrayed Anne Frank on November 10 and 11.

The third annual children's show RUMPELSTILTSKIN, directed by Mr. Prill and assisted by senior Vicki Shoup, was presented on February 8,9, and 10. Several elementary and junior high school students took part in the show for children. The set for RUMPELSTILTSKIN was designed by Chuck Ellison.

A comedy set the stage for the Players' spring production MRS. McTHING .

Mrs. Nichols helps Tom Howard prepare for his role as the king in Jefferson Players' production RUMPLESTILTSKIN .

Mrs. Jane Nichols assists Pat Moore, the prince, with his costume for the children's play RUMPLESTILTSKIN .

As Kay Boss watches in amazement, Dan Halstead teasingly tickles Debbie Pino during THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK .

Santa Claus, played by Tom Howard, takes a nap after hurriedly placing toys beneath the Christmas tree.

Mr. Richard Jaeger seems to be in deep concentration as he transforms Tom Howard into Santa while Ken Reagan looks on.

Choirs promote happiness

The 13th annual "Christmas Moods" was performed by the Jefferson High School choral department on December 10th, 11th, and 12th.

The theme for the show was "The Christmas World of Children." The A Cappella Choir was featured along with the Sophomore Ensemble, the Voices of Jeff, the Apollo Club, the Girls' Concert Choir, and the Boys' Glee Club.

Mr. Richard Jaeger was the general director and the conductor of A Cappella. Mr. and Mrs. Gary Branson were both directors and accompanists for the production.

There were secular and sacred segments to the program. The sacred portion was presented last.

Dave VanDermay, Corine Little, Dan Mayer, and Jan Barrett compose part of the train in the Christmas Moods.

A Cappella sells "after school

Eighty-three singers composed the A Cappella Choir. Two shows at Purdue were done by the choir. Participating in the annual Christmas Mood show and singing in a service at Trinity Methodist Church were some of their other activities. Recording sessions for the choir's Christmas album were held at Trinity Methodist Church. The choir performed in January at Tippecanoe Junior High School.

Singing Chichester Psalms, an arrangement by Leonard Bernstein, in Hebrew, the choir was accompanied by the Lafayette Symphony Orchestra. A spring musical and a spring trip highlighted the choir's activities. Mr. Gary Branson assisted Mr. Richard Jaegar as the choir's director.

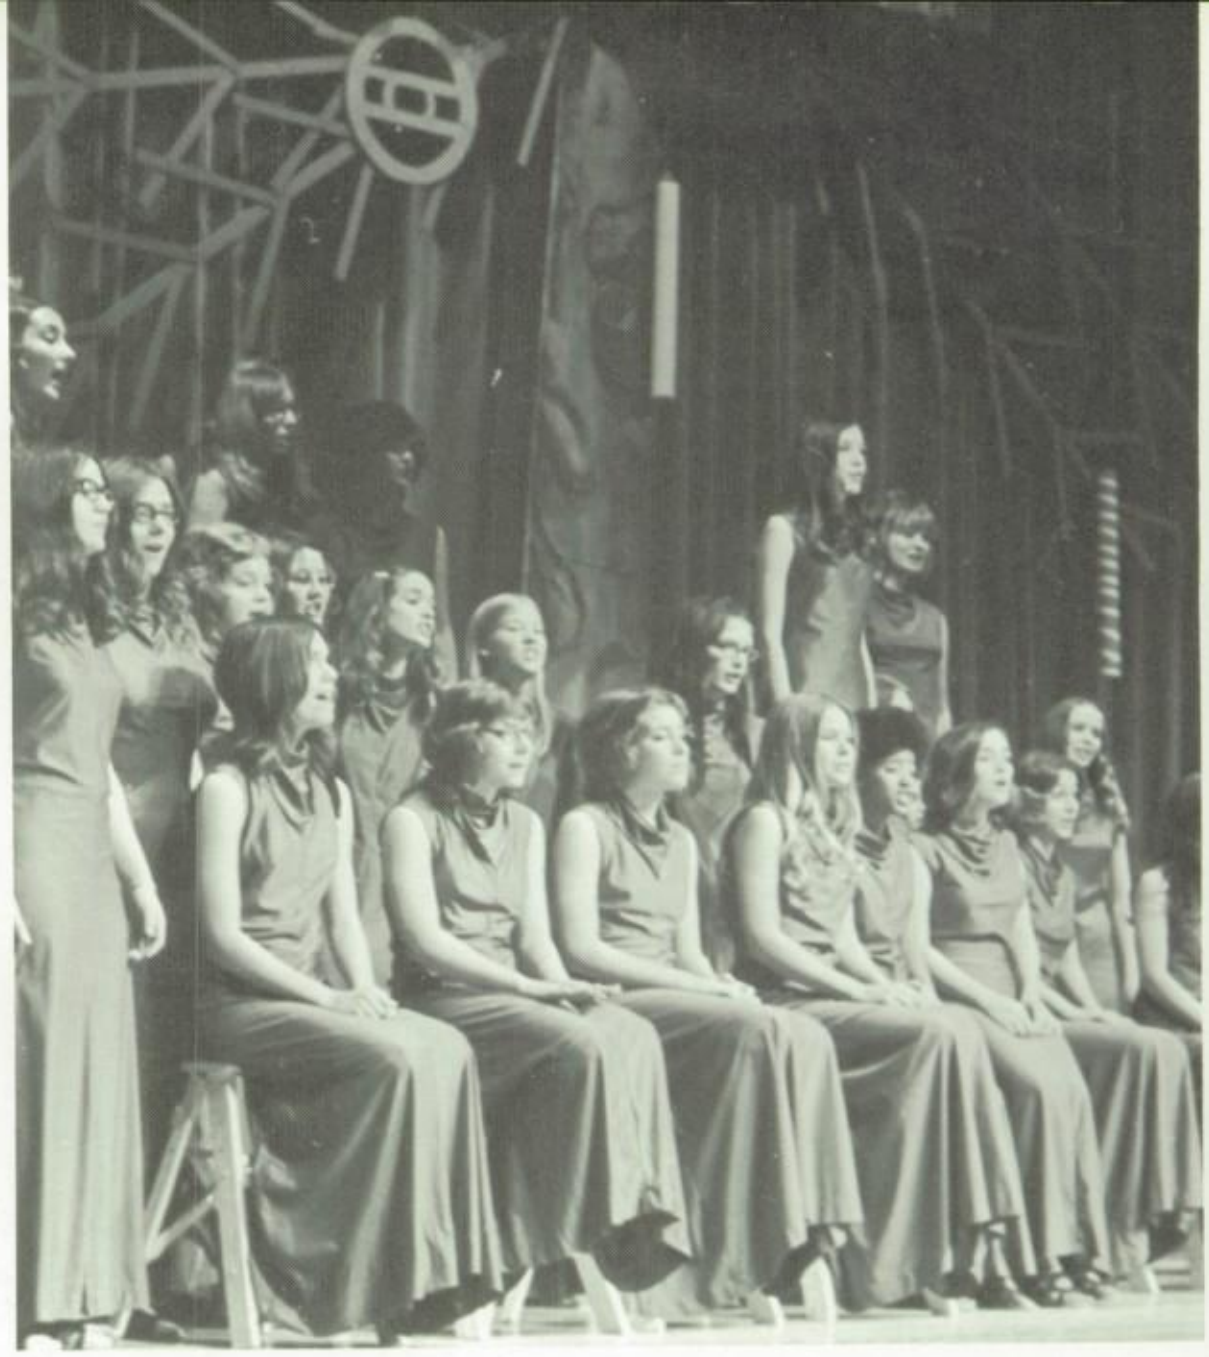
Voices sing at Americana

Thirty-eight girls, under the direction of Mrs. Gary Branson, composed Voices of Jeff this year. Dressed in green gowns and black sandals, they performed at the Lions Club, Eastern Star, and at the Elks. Also on their busy schedule were performances in the annual Christmas Moods.

While meeting the second class period of each school day, the girls prepared themselves for a trip to Chicago, Illinois. The elected officers were Jane Brock, president; Sharon Jones, vice president; Becky Booher, secretary; and Dina Boris and Diane McIntosh, librarians.



The girls in the Voices of Jeff put their heart into a song during the Christmas Mood.

The Apollo Club provided fine voices for the choral department's show, the Christmas Mood.

Jefferson High School's all-male choir, the Apollo Club, was directeded by Mr. Richard Jaeger. Attired in white shirts, brown sweater-vests, and dark trousers, the twenty-three member choir group gave several performances throughtout the school year.

During Christmas Moods, the Apollo Club combined their musical abilities with the all-female choir, Voices of Jeff, as the two musical organizations performed several Yuletide carols. Accompanied by Mr. Gary Branson, the Apollo Club sang "Carol, Brothers, Carol" for the Christmas album, "What Child Is This?"

Many hours of study readied the boys to advance to the A Cappella Choir.

Concert choir records "Suogan" for record

The Girls Concert Choir had fifty girls in its membership. These girls ranged from seniors to sophomores. Mrs. Gary Branson was the director of the choir.

The choir's various activities during the year were recording Suogan for the record "What Child is This," and singing in the annual "Christmas Moods."

During the year, the concert choir members were taught the basics of music, which included music dictation, noting rhythm patterns, practicing sight reading, and learning how to breathe properly with the use of the diaphragm.

In the spring, the girls in Concert Choir taped auditions for Mrs. Gary Branson and the other choir directors of the choral department.

Glee Club lends a note to Jeff

Tom Holtz desperately concentrates on the arrangement Kurt Weideman specified.

Development of a strong singing voice was just one of the many basic principles of music that the Boys' Glee Club learned this year. In order to obtain membership in this organization, auditions were held during the freshman year. The twenty-two member sophomore choral club, directed by Mr. Richard Jaeger, joined with the sophomore Girls' Ensemble for various shows.

Christmas Moods saw the Boys' Glee Club performing "Go Tell It On The Mountain." The Girls' Ensemble and the Boys' Glee Club together sang "The Straw Carol" and "The Hunter" for the Christmas album, "What Child is This?"

Seventy-five freshmen were chosen to join Jeff's select sophomore choral organization Boys' and Girls' Ensemble for the 1972-73 school year.

Under the musical direction of Jean and Gary Branson, the Ensemble practiced daily in order to achieve perfection in basic music skills. Performances were given for various civic organizations in the Lafayette area.

Dressed in casual winter attire, the Boys' and Girls' Ensemble performed several Christmas and Yuletide carols for "Christmas Moods." Among the Christmas compositions were "The Hunter" and the "Straw Carol." These two selections were also sung by the Ensemble for the Christmas album.

Varsity Singers entertain audience

Junior Greg Marcus, a member of Varsity Singers, is an accompanist on the drums in class.

Jefferson's twenty-seven Varsity Singers, directed by Mr. Richard Jaeger and accompanied on the piano by Mr. Gary Branson, gave several performances during the year. The group sang for the Americana Nursing Home, for the Pharmacy Club at the Trails, and for a sorority house at Purdue University.

They highlighted their engagements at the Nursing home, at the Trails, and at Purdue by singing in one act of the Christmas Moods, which was sung jointly by the Varsity Singers and the A Cappella Choir. The Christmas Mood was a success for the singers.

They finished the year by doing several variety shows.

Concert band a

There were seventy talented members in this year's Concert Band directed by Mr. Carroll Copeland. The band played many different selections of music from classical to contemporary. It helped raise money through the sales of candy and Texas fruitcakes. They also co-sponsored the Roller Derby with the athletic department to acquire additional money for band uniforms.

The Concert Band performed two concerts during the past school year. They also participated in the band contest held at Jeff. The band participated with the symphony band in the "500" Parade and Race. They also performed in the Tulip Festival held in Holland, Michigan.

The officers for the Concert Band were President Dan King, Vice President Curt Carter, Secretary Betsy McKinnley, and Treasurer Penny Turner.

With ninety members strong, the Symphony Band gave two concerts this past school year. They performed many compositions including themes from broadway shows, marches, classics and contemporaries. The Symphony Band's money-making project included the sale of candy bars and fruitcakes. They have co-sponsored the Hanneford circus with the athletic department. This year's tour included performing at Fort Wayne and touring the Ford Museum at Greenfield, Michigan. This tour lent its information to all members.

Pep band helps ignite broncho spirit

The twenty-eight members of the pep band, dressed in gold jackets and black pants, helped to create a high level of school spirit at home games and pep sessions. As well as performing on their own, they often played along with the routines of the basketball block, adding punch to the chants and yells.

The members of the pep band were a select group chosen from the Jeff band who devoted many hours of their time to practice and hard work. Since there is no class for the pep band, members can practice only on their own free time.

These bandsmen performed at all home games except the holiday tourney, and they attended a few away games.

During the season, the pep band performed at Purdue basketball games when the Purdue band was at another engagement.

The sixteen members of the Jefferson High School stage band accompanied the orchestra on its tour to St. Louis, Missouri. The stage band was featured during the concerts on the way to St. Louis. The band was also featured at one of the orchestra's home concerts.

The Jeff stage band also participated in the Indiana Music Educators Stage Band contest in February. The band also entertained thousands of fans during half-time festivities at the holiday tourney. Several invitations to play at other schools' dances and various civic organizations' events were offered to the stage band.

Mr. Thomas O. Dick acted as sponsor and director of these outstanding musicians. Joe Herr was elected student director.

BOOSTER struggles through 51st year

Greg Griffith, BOOSTER 's editor-in-chief, and Nancy Steel, editorial editor, discuss some of the articles in one edition of the BOOSTER .

Always in constant search for news, the BOOSTER staff devoted itself to publishing an award-winning high school newspaper. Because of the hard-working efforts of twenty-seven staff members and advisor Mrs. Carolyn Smith, the BOOSTER earned an "A" rank in the "International Honor Rating-Newspaper of Superior Achievement" and the "Quill and Scroll International Honorary Society's" top award.

Greg Griffith, editor-in-chief, with the help of Sue Turner, news editor; Holly Hickman and Dottie Dickerson, co-feature editors; Nancy Steel, editorial page editor; Greg Kirby, sports editor; and Debbie Collum, business manager published and distributed fifteen BOOSTER editions among the student body of Jeff throughout the school year.

WJJE-FM's second year to broadcast

Broncho Braodcasters sweat it out as they announce plays in an early season football game.

Broncho Broadcasters traveled to Chicago to obtain their third class operator's permits. Transmitter reading and radio board broadcasting were benefits stemming from the permit's acquirement. Broadcasting experience on WJJE-FM radio and various other club activities provided information about the broadcasting industry. Insight was gained in job opportunities concerning radio broadcasting.

Broadcasters took their annual trip visiting the WRTV channel six studio and appearing on the Jim Gerrard Show. Club officers were Jeff Newell, president; Rob Westall, vice president; and Kay Boss, secretary-treasurer. William Fraser and Stevan Speheger served as the organization's sponsors.

Hawker's Squawkers rank high

Jeff students who were interested in public speaking had the opportunity to join the National Forensic League. Approximately 100 members were sponsored by Mr. James Hawker and Mr. Thomas Prill. The group participated in many activities such as debating, dramatic and humorous interpretation, and original oratory to gain their membership.

To earn money to cover expenses, the group sponsored the first school dance and held several car washes. They also worked concessions and sold such items as books, games and dishes at the flea market.

The experience gained from these extracurricular activities could prove a valuable aid to students in the future.

James Hawker presents Jeff's top debaters, Alfred Buckley and Curt Coonrod their NFL award for their performance. Their contribution helped secure Jeff's top rating in the state.

FTA enjoys sponsoring tea in fall

Selling pecans and selling taffy apples and popcorn balls at basketball games were profitable projects for FTA. Proceeds from the profit were useful in providing a food basket to a needy family at Christmas time, a teachers' tea, a teachers' breakfast, and also Christmas gifts for the teachers.

The organization's meetings were highlighted by occasional guest speakers. Mrs. Jane Packard acted as the club's sponsor. Serving as the club's officers were, Joyce Barton, president; Karla Karner, vice president; Beth Landis, secretary; Mariam Shively, treasurer; and Becky Grant, historian. A cook-out involving all the club's members was also accomplished.

Caduceus was a club for the students who were interested in health careers. Caduceus was co-sponsored by Mrs. Sally McIntire and Mr. Erwin Kretzmeier. The president of the club was Debbie Anderson, who helped promote the organization. Cindy Sparrendahl was vice president; and Pam German, secretary. Each of the officers was elected last school year.

The money-raising projects of the club included stationery, ink pens, and pencil sales in the health center. The club had many different activities in the past year. The members of the club carolled at a local nursing home, and attended a conference for the state organization at Purdue in the spring. The year included various speakers and activities.

ICT students work and learn

Industrial Cooperative Training provided seniors with many kinds of afternoon jobs during the school day. This organization, whose purpose was to familiarize the senior students with all types of jobs and activities concerning work, also gave the students a chance to decide what type of work they found to be most interesting.

Working on weekday afternoons, ICT gave many of the students much needed training for their future careers.

Along with their sponsor Mr. George Price and officers Barb Wilson, president; Sue Reuzenaar, vice president; and Mark Brouillette. treasurer; one of the projects was sponsoring a public relations banquet for the employers. The banquet held at Morris Bryant, was, as usual, a big success.

DECA sells candy-filled banks for funds

Entertaining at the Turtle Creek Convalescent Center and contributing articles to the Thrift Shop were DECA's civic activities. 1,500 candy-filled banks brought in profits. Members enjoyed a fall hayride and a Christmas party. DECA's officers included Sherry Price, president; Mark Fortner, vice president; Karol Surber, secretary; and Carol Shipley, treasurer. DECA's sponsors were Mr. James Stalker and Mr. Mike Bridges.

While working in the afternoons at local stores, members found time for three DECA Leadership Conferences. Selected members participated in district and state competitive sales events. An employer-employee banquet was held with ICT and COE members at Morris Bryant. The club won an honorable mention in the activities round-up.

Mrs. Walkey hands office scout Cindy Kappes a pass to be delivered to one of the classes.

Many students offered their services as scouts during their free periods. In the office, scouts helped office personnel by distributing passes. They also placed bulletins and mail into the teachers' mailboxes, and collected attendance sheets from the classrooms.

Health center scouts worked with the school nurse to deliver passes to help ill students.

Students who were scouts in the IMC learned to operate the audio-visual equipment and to shelve books correctly.

Scouts who worked in the guideance office aided the counselors by delivering passes. As a whole, the scouts helped the school run more smoothly and efficiently.

Pupils join interaction group

A "soul dinner," observance of National Black History Week, February 11-17, and skits held at meetings were some of the activities planned this year by the Racial Interaction Group. The group, under the direction of Mr. L. Robert Butz, elected President David McKinney, Vice-President Cynthia King, Secretary Debbie Kellar, and Francine Pace, Treasurer.

Meetings were held twice a month with dues collected at every meeting. The purpose of the Interraction Group was to study Afro-American culture and to promote understanding between the races. All students were welcome to join.

Advisory Board boosts school morale

Cheerleaders' Advisory Board took care of practically everything but playing basketball and football during the seasons.

It was composed of all the cheerleaders, past as well as present, representatives from each organization and representatives from each class. The purpose of the Cheerleaders' Advisory Board was to build spirit at Jefferson High School, which the 44 members accomplished. Aside from signs, pep sessions, and fan buses, the board with help of officers Cathy Reynolds, president; Janine Cokain, vice-president; and Dede Dodds, secretary; also sold megaphones and pins at sectionals as well as sponsoring the Homecoming mixer. Under the helpful supervision of Mrs. Maddox and Mrs. Parkhurst, the Cheerleaders' Advisory Board was a great spirit builder.

Mrs. Dietz — new French Club sponsor

The French Club consisted of 50 members and was led by Tim Harrington, president; Mary Longfellow, vice president; Karen Randall, treasurer; and Sherry Wierranga, secretary; and under the guidance of Mrs. LouAnn Dietz.

A soccer game with the Spanish Club, a french movie, and a bike hike, were some of the various activities of the French Club. Instead of the annual Christmas dinner, the French Club celebrated the 12th day after Christmas, traditional to the French. This was combined with the French dinner and customary king's cake. The highlight of the French Club was a trip to Quebec, with the students staying with French families. Selling candy and collecting dues were means of raising money.

Led by Roseann Harrington, president; Jan Cline, vice president; Cathy Lucus, secretary; and Becky Grant, treasurer; the Spanish Club started the year with a panel discussion involving the students who visited Madrid. Selling hand-made paper flowers and miniature plaques, provided funds for the club. Some money was placed in the club's newly organized scholarship program, which will send a Spanish student to a Spanish speaking country.

A trip to Chicago, a Halloween party, and a Christmas dinner highlighted club activities. The club's undefeated soccer team went on to play Harrison's team. Club sponsors were, Mrs. Ellen Levy, Miss Donna Reseigh, and Mr. Omelio Sosa.

Jefferson High School students who sought to extend their knowledge in the area of art, were encouraged to join the art club. The club's 30 members planned trips to the Chicago Art Museum and the Indianapolis Art Museum. At these two museums, the club's members explored the cultural aspects of art. The club also went to Indianapolis for the Scholastic Art Finals.

The group earned money for their various activities by having a cheese sale and through their membership dues. Kris Irwin was the club's president with Mike Johnson, vice president; and Sue Johnson, secretary-treasurer. The club was sponsored through its many activities by Mr. Robert Adams, head of the art department.

J Club sparks enthusiasm among fans

Football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, tennis, swimming, track, and golf are included in J-Club, an athletic organization made up of all athletes earning J letters.

Consisting of 58 athletes, the purpose of this organization was not only to give recognition to the deserving athletes but also to build spirit among the student body by organizing several different types of activities.

Some of the various activities included holding ropes for home basketball games as well as having a boys cheering section. Along with their sponsor, Mr. Marion Crawley, the officers were Harold Vaughn, president; Bob Rohrman, vice-president; Dave Scott, secretary; Scott Peters, treasurer; and Bob Dowell, sergeant at arms.

Jr. Varsity maintains Colt image

As always, Coach Jack Schult pushed Jefferson's Junior varsity team to strive toward working together more efficiently and toward cooperating with one another when they were on the basketball court.

The team grew better with each game, and several of the players showed much promise for the future Varsity team.

The team generally played consistently throughout the entire game until the last few minutes, when, in a few of the games, quick action excited the fans, and the outcome of the game seemed uncertain. Overall, the colts played well.

The team ended with a fairly good record, showing that hard work and lots of practice pay.

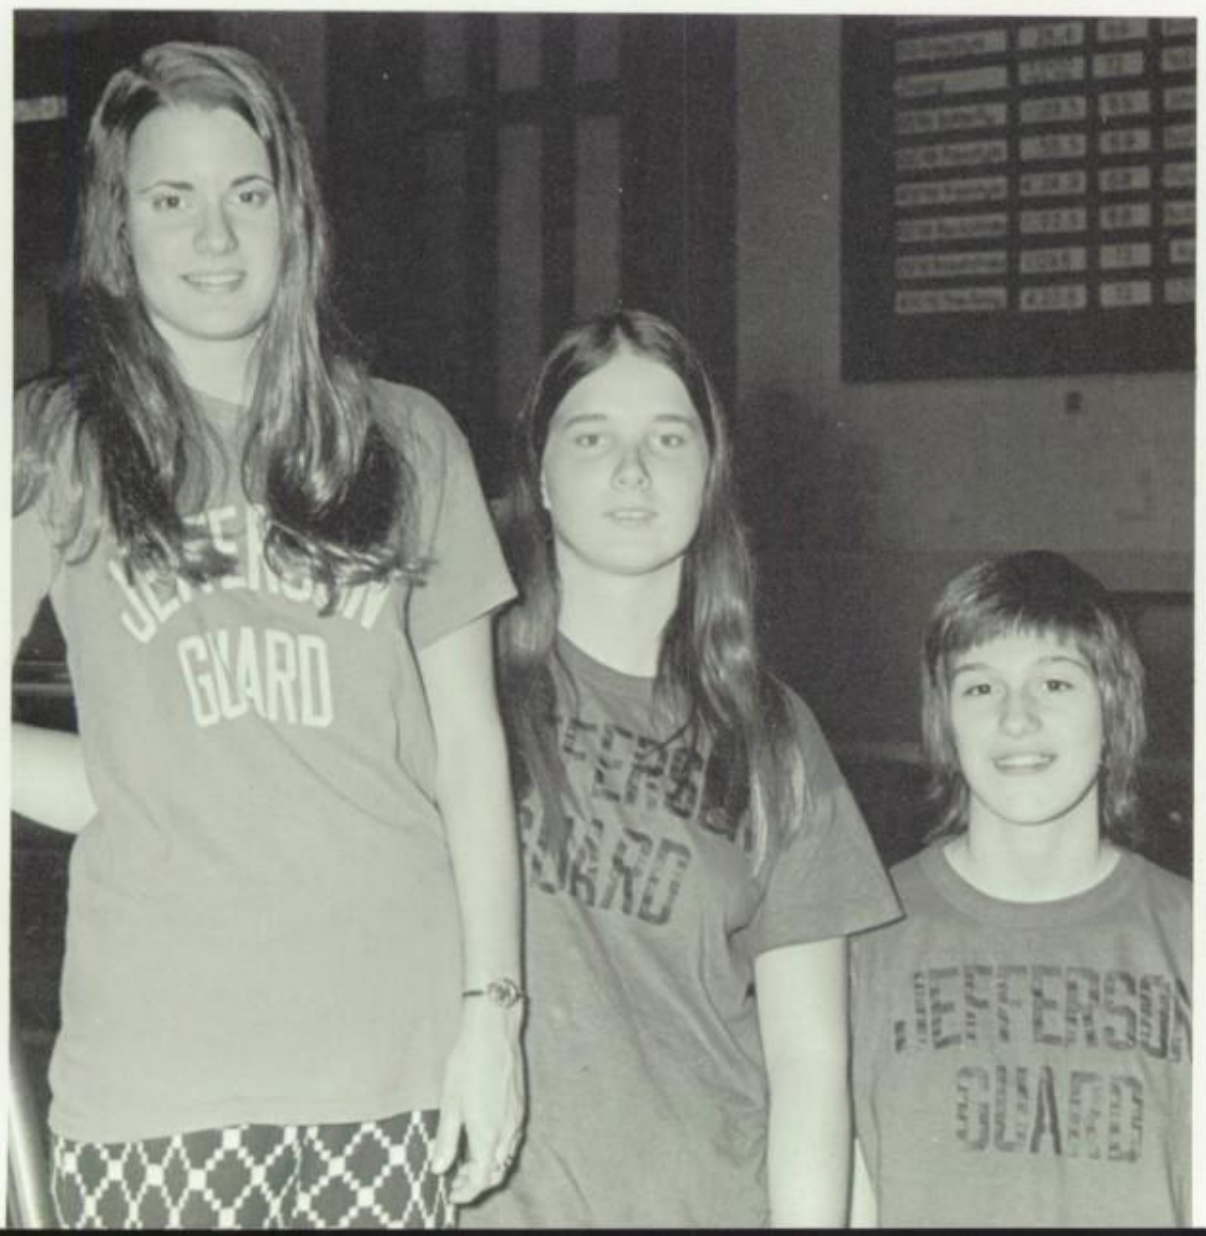
Jeff Guard captains, Cathy Newhart, Celina O'Brian, and Pam Holladay, time swim team meets.



Jefferson Guards did get into the "swim" of things this year, sponsoring enough projects to keep almost anyone busy.

The purpose of the Jefferson Guard was to help out with any activity which required the use of the swimming pool. The guards, with the help of sponsor Mrs. Emily Price, did a variety of things which required much work.

Some of the many things the Jeff Guards did included teaching at private swim clubs, working at swim meets, helping P.E. classes, and working concessions for swimming and wrestling. The guards also sponsored many bake sales as one of the projects and they also sponsored the Sweet Heart Dance.

Sunshine Society assists others

The Sunshine Society sold candy and donated the money to the Riley's Childrens Hospital. The members of the club tried to brighten the holidays of many people by doing service projects at Christmas time. The SSS held their annual round-up to inform the sophomores about the various organizations at Jeff.

The SSS had a father-daughter banquet during the school year. The SSS dance, "The Gallop," had the theme of the "Nifty Fifty Fling." It was held in the corral in November.

The Sunshine Society was sponsored by Mrs. Jane Nichols and Mrs. Margret Clift. The Sunshine Society's officers for the year were Cathy Allee, president; Denise McAhren, vice president; Jane Brock, corresponding secretary; Jama Williams, recording secretary; and Sandy Adkins, treasurer.

Bob Rohrman and Brad Taylor conduct a meeting for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

The aim of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes was to promote Christian attitudes to the athletes. The only requirements for membership to the club were that the boy must be an athlete and a member of a church.

The members supported their club by selling various types of advertisements and schedules for the athletic events at school. Candy sales were also used to boost the club's treasury.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes was sponsored by many of the coaches at Jeff. The coaches that sponsored the club were Mr. Joe Heath, Mr. Phillip Hurt, and Mr. Pete Shug.

The officers of the FCA were Bob Rohrman, president; Jim Fields, vice president; and Harold Vaughn, secretary-treasurer.

SAC decorates corral for Christmas

Tallying the results of questionaires concerning the topic of the open lunch program proved to be a major SAC project. Students' parents were sent questionaires, and their feelings were revealed. Operation Santa Claus, sponsored by SAC, raised by student contributions $425 for indigent families. In April, a student exchange between Jeff and Southwestern was held. A SAC committee was formed to organize the exchange. Students from Jeff were selected from qualifying names submitted.

In late April elections for next year's SAC and class officers were held. This year's SAC officers were Greg Griffith, president; Dan Sexson, vice president; Linda Robledo, recording secretary; Jane Brock, corresponding secretary; and Pam Green, treasurer. SAC sponsor was Mr. George Newell.

Juniors ranking in the top four percent of their class augmented the Wilma Fletemeyer Chapter of the National Honor Society. The remaining six per cent of the senior class was a smaller addition also added to the club's membership. The junior members served as ushers at commencement exercises, while senior members were honored by wearing gold tassels as part of their graduation apparel.

Dues paid by new members brought in funds for the organization. Mr. Kenneth Conkling served as the club's sponsor. Organization officers were, Curt Coonrod, president; Jeff Newell, vice president; and Diane Frey, secretary-treasurer. Organizational meetings were irregular and few throughout the year.

An opponent tries desperately to stop Vint Vaughan who has found a hole in the opponents' defense, but his attempt proves to be futile.

Once again Jeff's Varsity Football squad had a winning season. The 1972 gridders finished a successful season with a record of six wins and four losses. The gridders continued Jeff's series of homecoming wins by defeating Muncie Central.

Several gridders were awarded individual honors. Dave Scott and Harold Vaughn served as co-captain. Scott, Tony Pedon, and Joe Mahoney were on the All-state offensive team while Vaughn, Don Ellington, and Jay Clever served on the defensive team. Team awards were given to Vaughn, Most Valuable Player; Scott, Best Mental Attitude; Pedon, Best Offensive Lineman; Clever, Best Defensive Lineman; and Frank Simek, Most Improved.

Mr. Pat McCaffrey coached the gridders and Mr. Harold Cordell acted as trainer.

Reserve wins 7-1

This year's Reserve Varsity Football team lost its first game, but they went on to win the next seven. Coach Jack Schult felt the team had a potent offense, which showed good running and passing tactics, and an excellent defense, which got the ball to the offense in good position and time.

The seven wins this year finished an impressive ten-year record for the Reserve Varsity teams with 61 wins, 15 losses, and three ties.

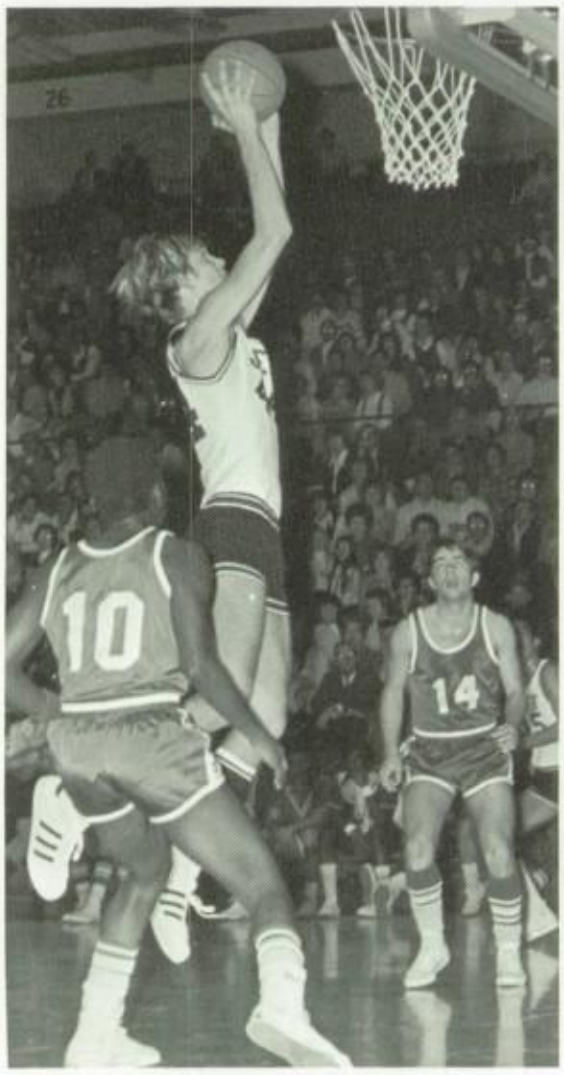
Junior Gene Bowen proved to be a great asset to the Bronchos. He added, not only scoring ability, but also height.



Broncho Harold Vaughn jumps high to raise the score two points, evading an attempted block by a Logansport Berry.

Crispus Attucks for two big wins

The Jeff Bronchos' leading scorer Jim Fields shows his scoring ability as he sinks a shot.

The Jeff Bronchos, with only one regular returning from last year's Semi-State Finalist team, started the season with three straight wins but faltered in games with Kokomo, Anderson, and Valpo. The team bounced back with a win over Kokomo Haworth but lost to archrival West Lafayette.

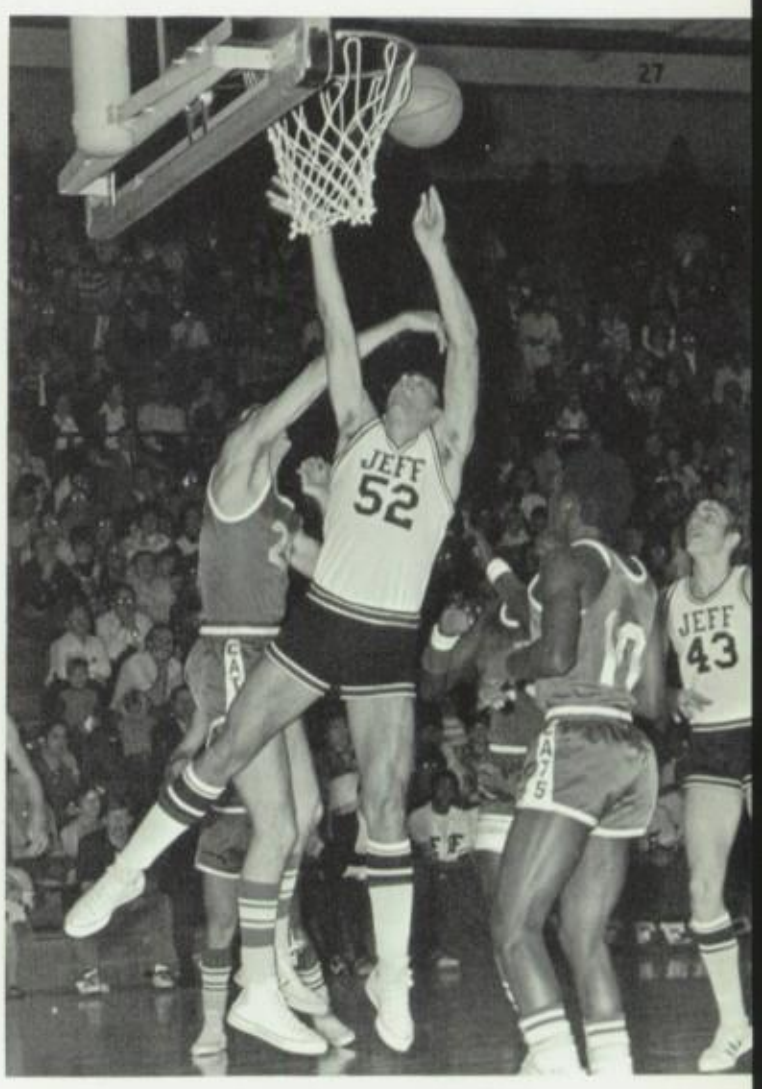
Led by Jim Fields and Colorado transfer Gene Bowen, the Bronchos won the holiday tourney for the fourth year in a row defeating Rochester 52-47. This was the start of a nine game winning streak that ended with a two point loss at Richmond 61-59.

There were many big wins during the nine game streak but the biggest was the 62-61 overtime victory over third ranked New Castle.

Coach Joe Heath used mostly underclassmen in compiling a 14-6 over-all season record and a fourth place finish in the N.C.C.

Broncho Vint Vaughan strives for another basket while Gene Bowen watches with anticipation.

The Muncie Bearcats can only watch as Broncho Dave Scott makes a shot.



"We are from Jefferson High,

The 1972-73 Jefferson Bronchos finished the season with 15 wins and seven losses. Five of their seven losses came by a total of twelve points. The last loss was to sectional foe Central Catholic 57-56. For the first time in 30 years the Bronchos were beaten in the first round of the tourney play.

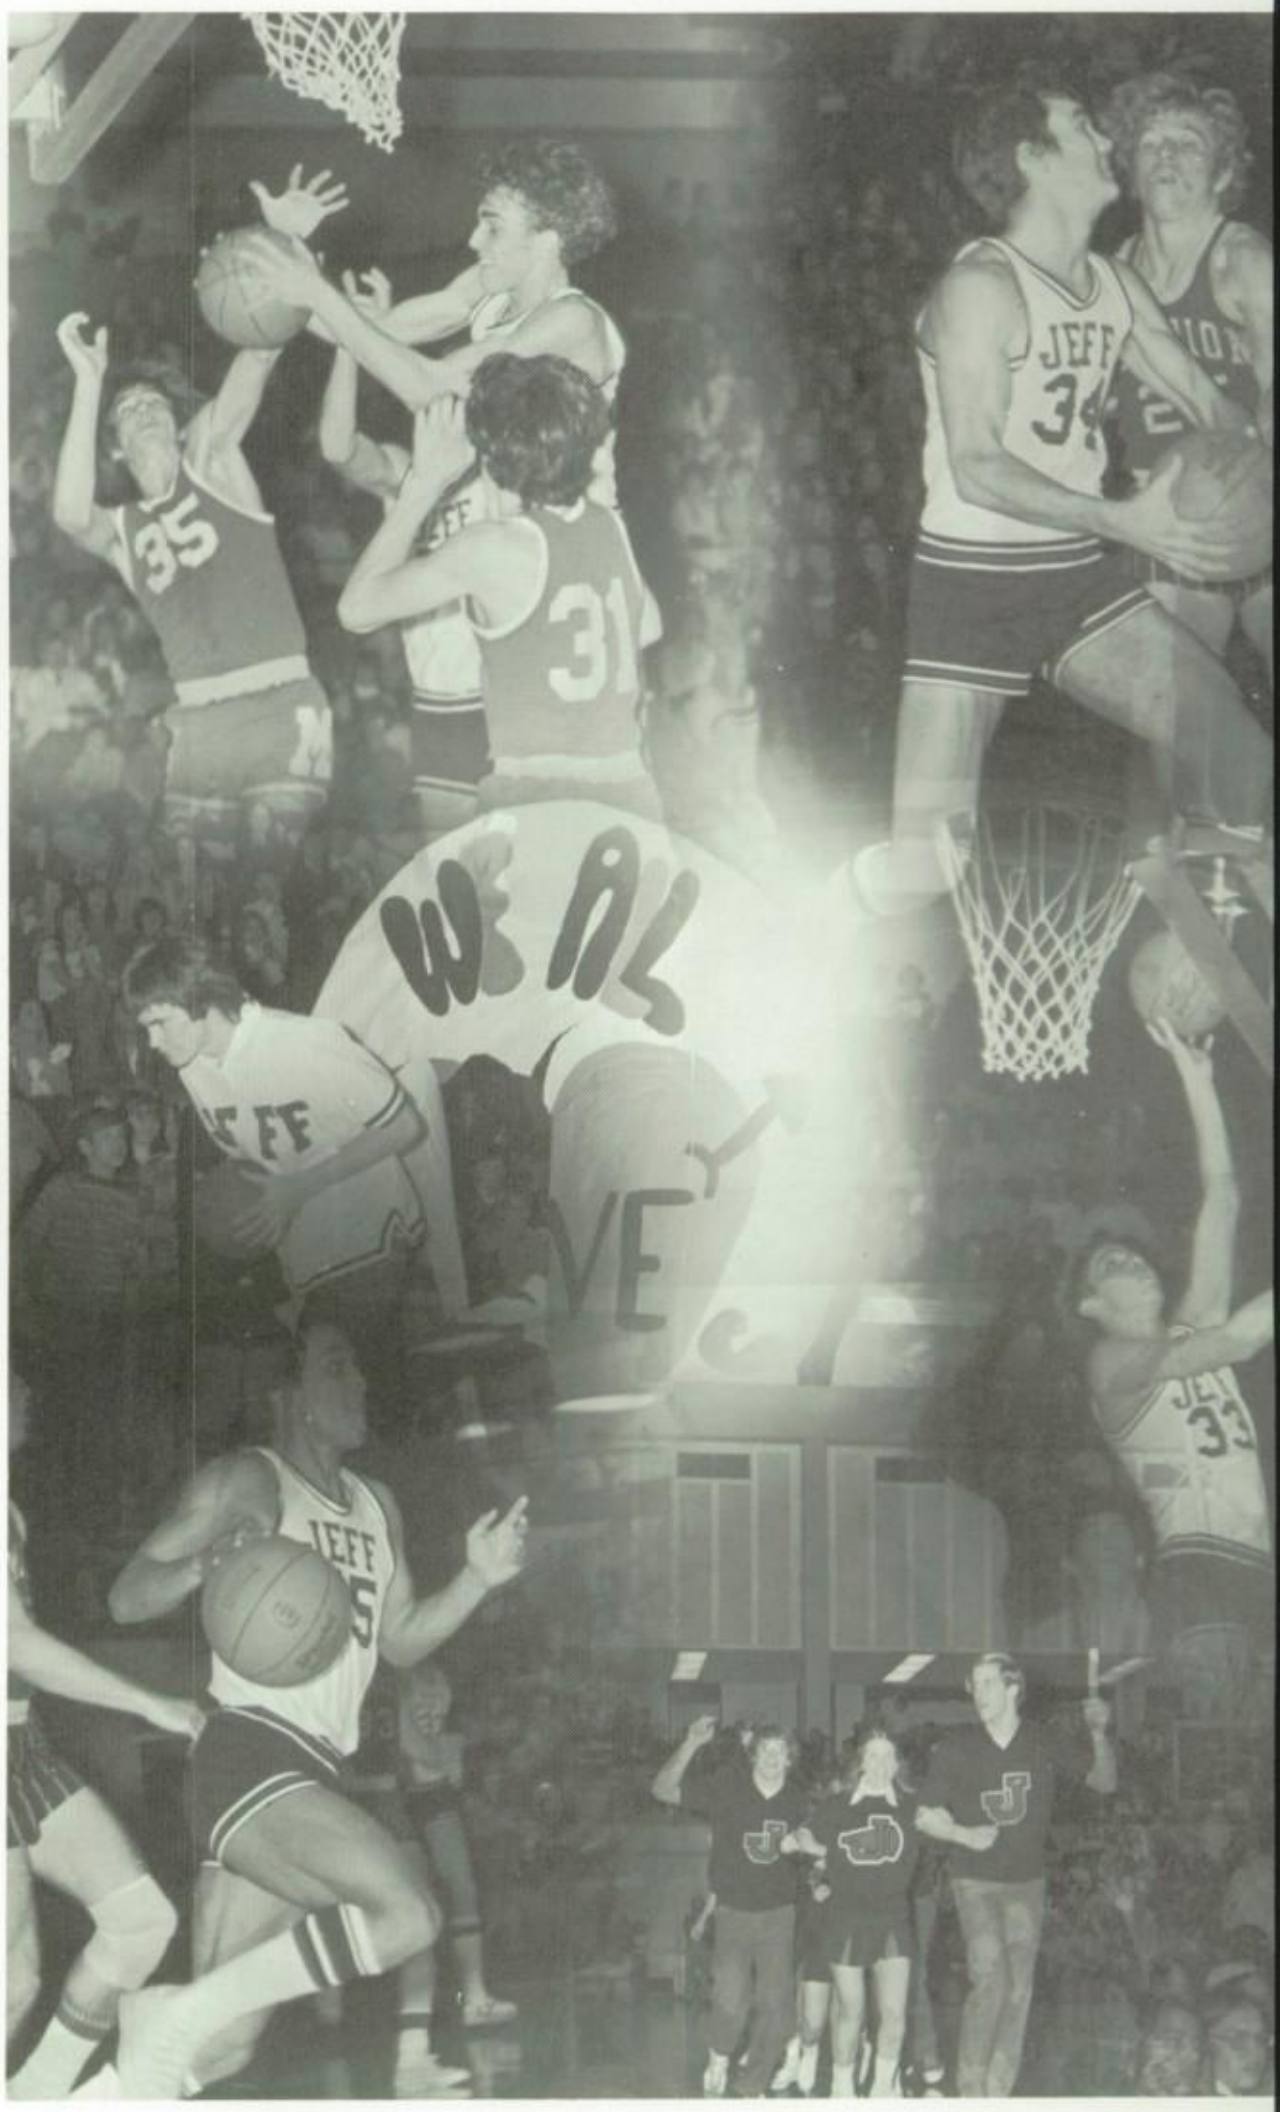
The C.C. game was a "nip and tuck" affair with the score tied on 18 different occasions. With seconds remaining, the Knights finally won a free-throw by 6'8" Tom Cutter.

This loss broke the state's longest sectional string held by the Bronchos at 29. Not since Monitor won in 1943 had Jeff lost a sectional game. That was Marion Crawley's first year as Broncho coach, and, since that time, the Jefferson basketball tradition has established one of the truly outstanding records in the history of Indiana high school athletics.

In the following 29 years the Bronchos won 29 straight sectionals, and 99 straight sectional games.

The Jeffmen also hold the record for the most sectionals won with 48. This is a great record to be proud of, which probably will never be equaled by any other school in Indiana.

During this time only three men; Marion Crawley for twenty-three years, Bill Wolsieffer for one year, and Joe Heath for six years; have served as Jeff head coaches.



and no one could be prouder!"

This year's team was young and inexperienced but made great progress throughout the year to compile a good record. The great pressure of the "29" and a good C.C. team finally brought the sectional winning streak to an end.

Four of the first five players will return to give the Bronchos an excellent chance to go "all the way in '74."

Coach Heath commented about the season in this way, "This team represented our school and community in an exemplary manner, as young men should. They are a team to be congratulated upon their accomplishments on the basketball floor, and, in other ways, they were an exceptional group that distinguished themselves as good sportsmen, as well as good athletes. The squad was composed of quality people, and it was a privilege to work with these boys this past season."

Although the record breaking sectional string has been broken, the returning lettermen, coach, student body, and fans are already looking forward to starting a new victory string in the 1974 sectional.

Colts gain experience during season

The Jeff Reserve Varsity Basketball team finished this year with a 13-7 season. Coach Jack Schult's team showed strong points in defense and rebounding.

Throughout the year, team effort produced many big wins. Before the holiday tourney action, the team had compiled a 3-5 record. Sparked by victories in both of the tourney games, the Reserve Varsity finished its remaining season with 10-2 record.

The team's performance during the game against New Castle was ranked excellent. The victory of 59-29 showed that the team's defense held its opponents, while the offense battered at the baskets. The strong points of the team were defense, but they showed excellent abilities in all areas of the game.

H. Green guides golfers through season

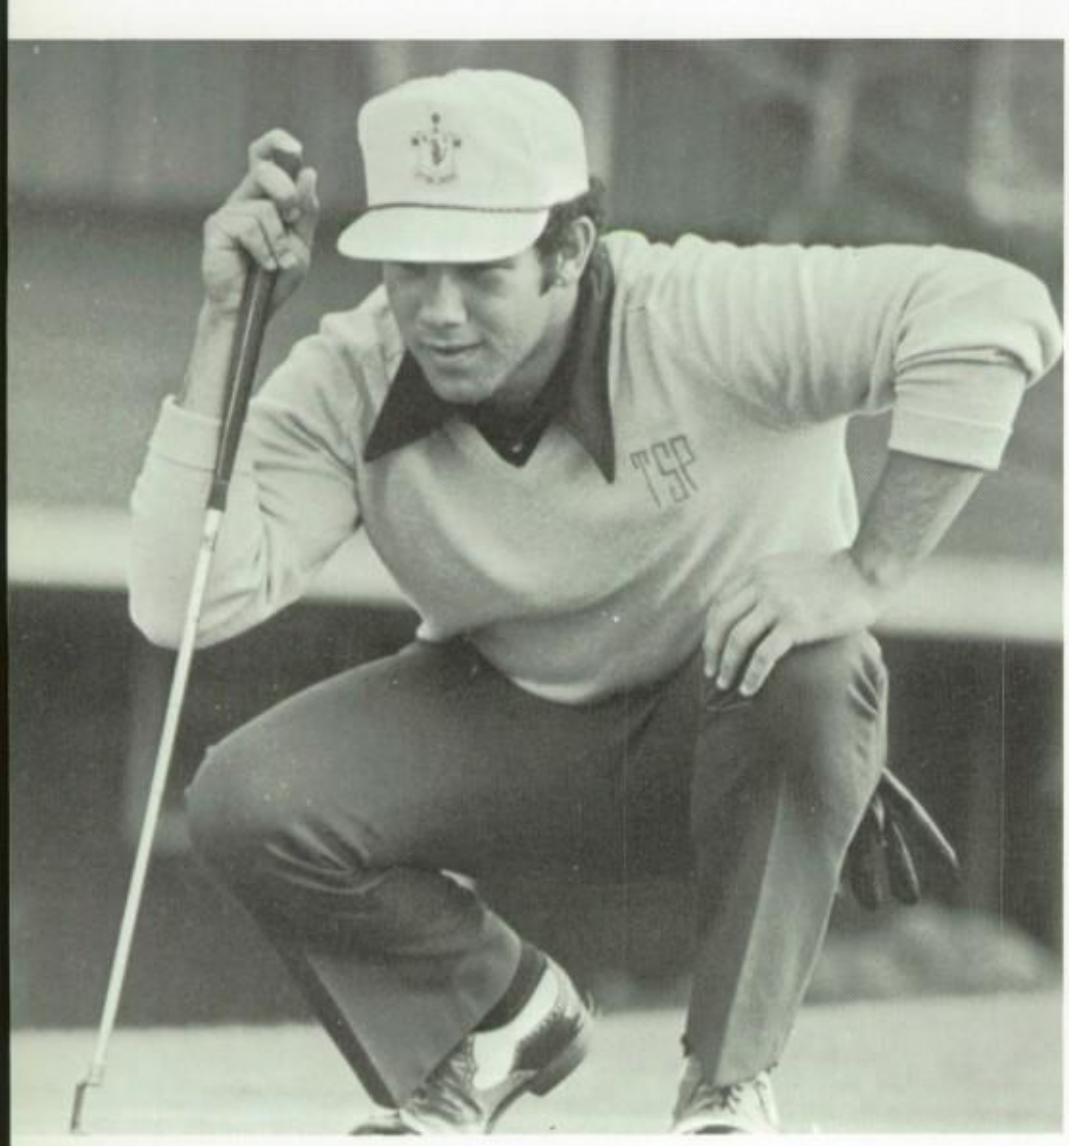
The Jeff golf squad completed its busy season with a 17 win, six loss record in 1972. Mr. Harry Green, coach, and Mr. Bob Query, assistant coach, guided the team in its endeavors.

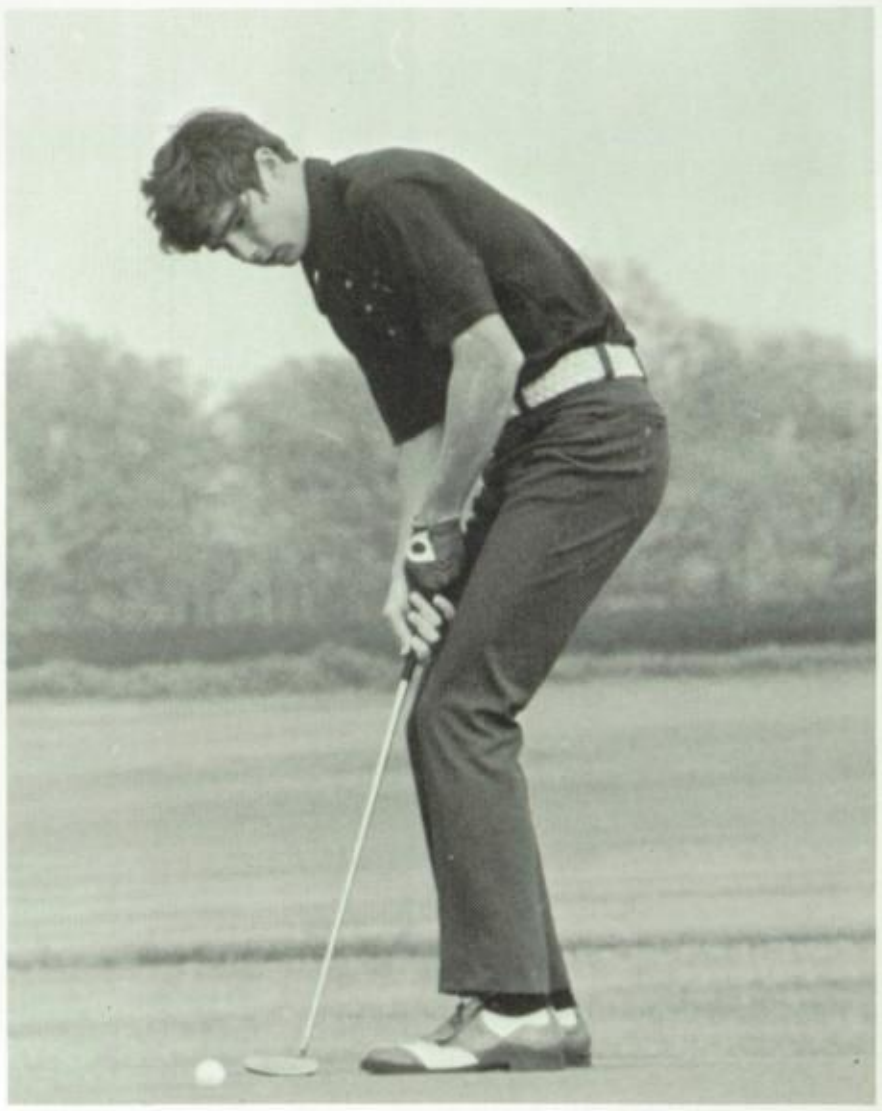
Holding their practice sessions at the Lafayette Country Club, the team prepared for tournaments. The squad placed fourth in regional play and second in sectional play.

Scott Peters earned the Jim Guinnup Award by decreasing his stroke average by 4.625. Dick Murray earned the title of Most Improved Varsity Golfer. Doug Myers was awarded a first for his stroke average of 81.684. A first award went to Paul Stefaniak for the Most Improved Junior Varsity Player in 1972.



Scott Peters carefully locates the correct alignment for a putt.

Senior Doug Myers concentrates in an effort to make a good putt.



Netters capture NCC again

The Jeff Netters were undefeated this year in North Central Conference competition with the record of seven wins and zero losses. The members of the North Central Conference Team were Ted Phillips, senior; Tim Harrington, junior; John Cochran, junior; and Doug McDonald, sophomore. The Jeff Netters have won the NCC championship for two consecutive years, boosting the Jeff NCC record to 11 wins in the past 15 years.

In non-conference action, the Jeff team won six meets and lost one to Munster. The members of the team were Ted Phillips, captain; John High, Tim Harrington, John Cochran, and Doug McDonald. Ted Phillips earned the C.J. Hopkins award. Mr. C.J. Hopkins, coach for the Jeff team, was voted the NCC tennis coach of the year.

Ted Phillips, the number one man on the tennis team, practices his overhand drive.

Tennis player John High returns a volley with a forehand drive.

Girls break swim records with Schug

The girls' swim team had a new coach this year. Pete Schug, coach of the boys' swim team, also coached the girls' team. The team turned out to be just as successful as it has been in the last few years. Coach Schug believed that the girls could build a winning tradition with hard work, dedication, and team pride.

The girls' swim team hosted the regional swim meet this year. Electronic timing devises were rented for the meet.

Sara Conkright, a freshman from Sunnyside, was an outstanding swimmer this past year. She broke six records this past season and also enhanced a state record. Sara should be a big threat to other teams in years to come.

Swimmer Jan Burruss races for the finish as she does the butterfly with perfect form.

Donita Snoeberger, a member of the Jeff Gymnastics Team, executes the swan on the unevens.

The Girls' Athletic Association had a membership of over two-hundred girls this year. Unfortunately just over a hundred girls were active participants.

The G.A.A. club included such sports as; badminton, coached by Mrs. Beard; volleyball, coached by Mrs. Smith; gymnastics, coached by Mrs. Honegger; swimming, coached by Mr. Schug and Mrs. Smith; track and field, coached by Mrs. Marjie Smith and Mrs. Roberta Honegger; and tennis, coached by Carolyn Trueblood. All of the teams ended the season with a very impressive record.

Boys' Swim Team has sectional victory

"The Pride of '73 because we're all in this together." This is how Pete Schug and the '73 boys' swim team felt about their swim team. Jeff has developed a winning tradition in the past few years and it takes pride in maintaining a winning tradition.

Coach Schug's team set five goals at the beginning of the season: won all meets, won holiday relays, won the conference, won sectional, and played in top ten state. The swim team reached all of their goals except for one loss in dual competition with Munster.

Mat Bridges comes up for a breath of air while executing the perfect form for freestyle.

Bob Downing promotes

Tom Kent set a new school record by placing first in the state in the broad jump. Mr. Robert Downing, coach, and his assistant, Mr. Phillip Hurt, lead the team in a rewarding season for 1972.

The squad set several new records during 1972. Bob Rohrman, on the 880 relay team, set a new record of one minute 56.7 seconds. The cindermen also broke school records in the two mile relay and the broad jump. Jerry Mathews set the new pole vault record at 13 feet 11 inches. In the mile relay, Mike King, Steve Sharp, Jerry Johnson, and Bob Rohrman established a new record of three minutes 24.7 seconds.

Managers were Joe Puterbaugh, Darwin Acord, Mike Long, Steve Hanna, and Randy Lane.

Senior Harold Vaughn, a member of the track team, participates in the broad jump.

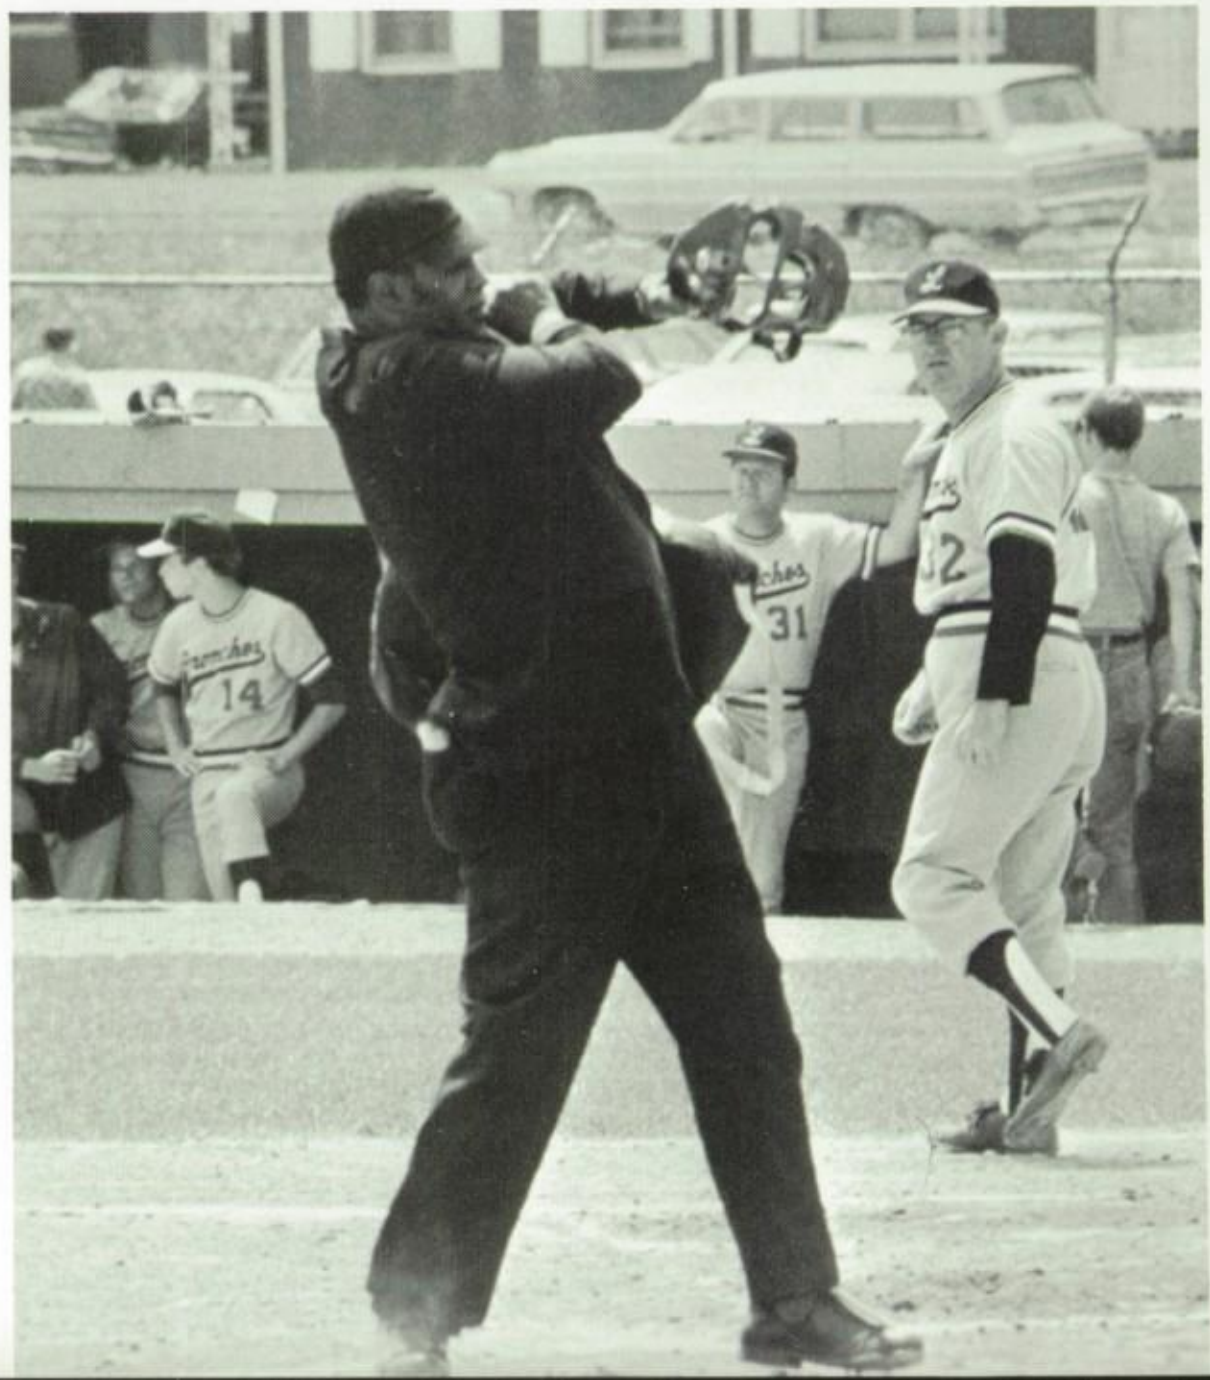
Coach "Spider" Fields responds with a questioning glance to a call made by an umpire.



coach "Spider" Fields is pleased

The returning lettermen from the 1972 baseball team, after having made a record of thirty-three wins, five losses, and one tie in 1972, were seniors Bill Olds, Jeff McMindes, Bob Dowell, Bob Rawles, Dave Scott, and juniors Dan Weastler, Dave Rife, Kevin Gibson, Jim Fields, Barry Koning, and Frank Simek. The remainder of the team consisted of members of the reserve squad.

The team began the year with memories of the 1972 team's impressive showing. Bob Dowell, Jim Fields, and Bill Olds were on the all-NCC team in 1972, and the team lost in the semi-state tourney. Bill Olds was the leading pitcher (10-1); Jim Fields earned the MVP award and was the leading hitter (.408).

Mr. Paul Fields was coach, and Mr. Joe Heath was assistant coach.

As the pitcher throws the ball to home base, Bob Dowell attempts to steal a base.

Broncho team managers offer support

Much hard work was performed by the athletic managers of the various organized sport teams this year. These managers gained the responsibilities which went on behind the scenes and contributed to the well-being of the athletic department.

Some of the duties they performed were issuing the uniforms, gathering and keeping statistics of the games, and looking after the players' necessities. One of the most important jobs the team managers had was to boost the spirit of the teams.

In return for their services during the year, the athletic managers received a JV pin or a varsity letter.

Wearing bright red ponchos and white gloves, the football block helped to push the football team to victory. The block performed hand motions to the band's music. Senior captains DeDe Dodds and Janine Cokain worked with junior captain DeDe Oswalt and Jama Williams on hand routines and the distribution of ponchos. Mrs. Lugenia Parham and Mrs. Terry Claypool were this year's advisors.

Senior block captains Kathy Taylor, Barb Shaw, and Cathy Reynolds, and junior captains Sharlene Gretencord, Shelley Gagle, and Becky Booher planned seating arrangements, hand routines, and card shows for the 225 member basketball block. The captains were aided by the advice of Mrs. M. Schrader, Mrs. J. Parry, and Mrs. V. Stowell.

The Lafayette School Board of Trustees was composed of eight members this year. They decided upon many important issues involving the operation of Jeff and other public schools in Lafayette. Their meetings, held in the Jeff multi-purpose room on the second Monday of each month, were open to all who were interested.

The officials on the school board were Dr. Russell Portman, president; William C. Krantz, Vice president; Harold Beaman, secretary; with Mrs. Ann Glade, James E. Middleton, Dr. Leon Titche, George Hanna, and Charles Bell as participating members of the board.

The school board voted and made recommendations for school expenditures, teachers' salaries, and other school-related topics. Board members accepted suggestions from anyone.

Jim Wilson leads 1973 seniors

The senior class became the fourth class to graduate from the new Jefferson High School building.

With help and guidance from Richard Thoennes, senior class sponsor, and officers, Jim Wilson, president; Dan CasaSanta, vice president; and Jan Cline, secretary-treasurer, the class of 1973 participated in many fund-raising projects. The principal money making project was the annual sale of magazines. The profit made from the magazine sales was used for prom preparations, decorations, and entertainment.

On May 31, 1973, seniors donned their caps and gowns. As the traditional reigns of "Pomp and Circumstance" reverberated throughout the gymnasium, approximately 524 seniors received their longingly awaited diplomas.

Juniors get homecoming spirit jug

Spirit was the only word that could be used to describe the junior class. The juniors, under President Brad Griffith, along with Secretary-Treasurer Marla Smith attempted and accomplished many things.

648 screaming juniors helped to win the "Spirit Jug" for the class, while also winning hall decorations during Homecoming and in the words of junior sponsor Mr. Paul Deppert, "The juniors won with tremendous originality and artistic ability."

In addition to having spirit, the juniors also set up money making projects — the selling of Christmas wrapping paper was a big project for the year along with sponsoring the prom for the seniors. But for the juniors this was just the beginning.

Junior class officers Brad Griffith and Marla Smith inhance their class fund by selling wrapping paper during the Christmas season.

Kathy Lister puts her other mitten on in preparation for her walk home in the snow with her stack of books.

Bill Thomas uses tapes as a new way of learning the basics of physics. Lab projects and lectures are also part of physics class.

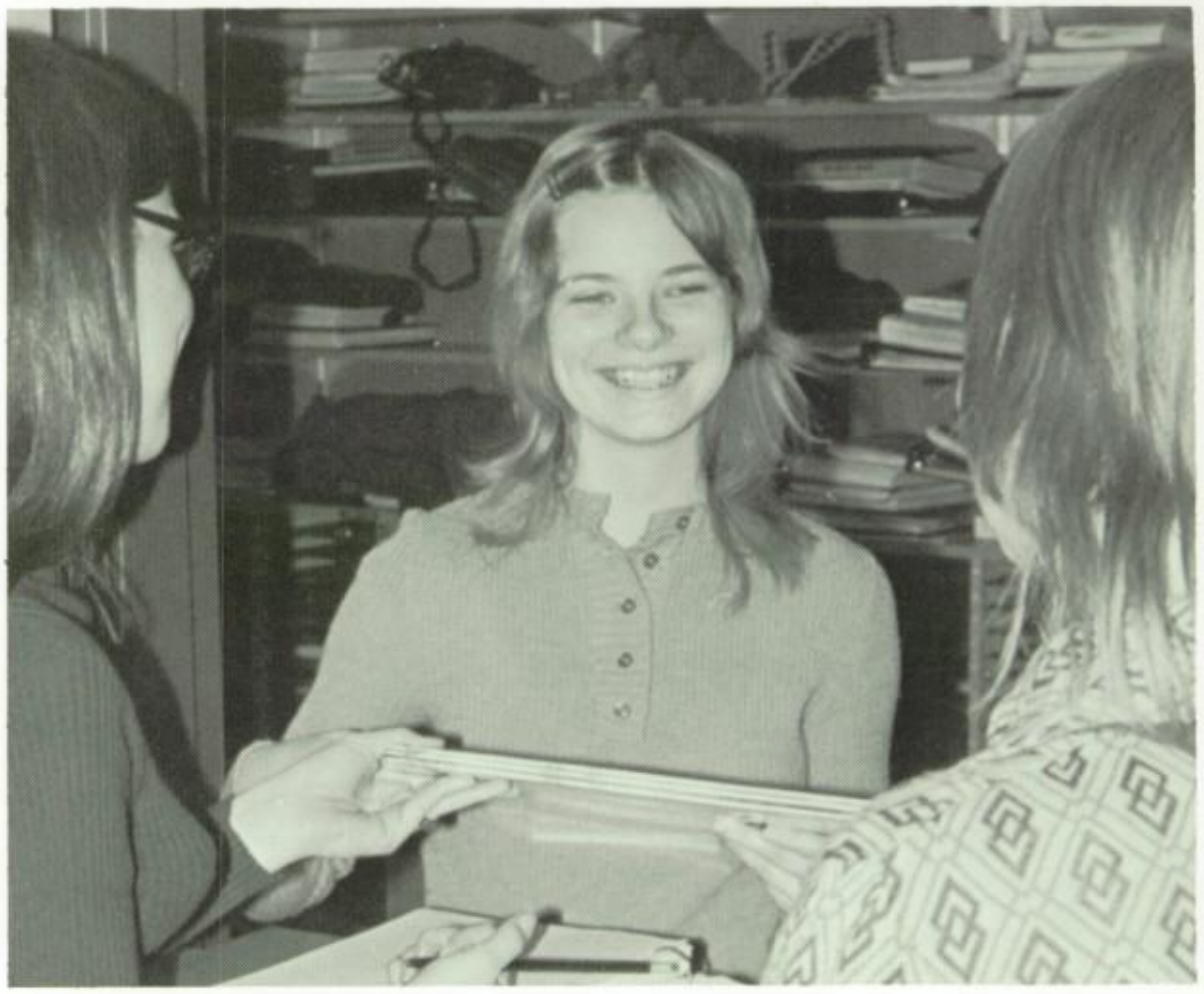
Sophs await arrival of rings in fall

Diane McIntosh and Sandy Alexander collect money from sophomore Judy Wepler for the choral department's Christmas record, "What Child Is This?"



736 sophomores organized to form one of the largest classes ever to enter Jefferson High School. Their class officers were Alan Hobbs, president; John CasaSanta, vice-president; and Stephanie Schreckengast, secretary. These officers led the sophomores in their first year at Jeff. The sophomores soon lost their first day fears and became vigorously involved in school, clubs, and plays.

The sophomores soon took on the Broncho spirit. With Cathy Gretencord, Vicki Rogers, Jessie Burk, Kristy Dimmit, Barb Middleton, and Becky Whitsel as their cheerleaders, the once Chargers, Braves, and Stars supported the Bronchos at every opportunity.

The class of '75 supported their class financially by selling graduation announcements to the seniors. Mrs. Krueger, class sponsor, helped with the projects.

Sophomore class officers are John CasaSanta, vice president; Stephanie Schreckengast, secretary-treasurer; and Alan Hobbs, president.

You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars.
You have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. And whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life, keep peace in your soul. Strive to be happy. Be yourself.
